Foreigners Asked By Japan To Move From Yangtze Towns

Tokio Says Bombing Campaign Against Hankow and Other Centres Coming

British Gunboat Shifts in River

SHANGHAI (AP) — Foreign powers were handed new notes by the Japanese Monday urging them to evacuate their citizens from a half dozen Yangtze Valley cities listed as probable targets for further widespread bombings.

Two previous notes, one a month ago and the other last Saturday, had asked removal of all foreign vessels and foreigners along the Yangtze River in the path of the Japanese advance of Hankow.

The new memorandum informed foreign diplomats that concentration of Chinese troops and military eestablishments in Hankow and other key cities nearby necessitated a bombing campaign.

AREAS LISTED

A spokesman for the Japanese air force said the areas likely to be bombed included:

Hankow, the provisional capital and objective of the Yangtze drive.

Nanchang, Gen. Chiang Kai-shek's chief air base in central China.

Yochow and Changhsa, on the Canton-Hankow railway south of the provisional capital.

Kiukiang, Yangtze River city, where Chinese have constructed a boom 135 miles below Hankow to block the Japanese advance.

AT HANKOW

The spokesman said the neutrality of the French Concession in Hankow would be respected, but that he had no knowledge of any refugee zone in that area for Chinese civilians. He did not say when the threatened aerial campaign would begin.

Japanese planes already were active in the Yangtze Valley, bombing Nanchang and Hangyang airfields and the boom across the river 30 miles upstream from Kiukiang. A Japanese report said five buildings were set afire at Hanchang and that four Chinese planes were destroyed and two damaged at Hangyang.

The British gunboat Cockchafer and the United States gunboat Monocacy were reported to have moved three miles up the Yangtze from their stations at Kiukiang as Japanese warships shelled Chinese defences of the city.

Carlow Confession Results in Charges Against R. Wallace and F. Dunegan

As a result of the confession made last week by Joseph Carlow which furnished police with information to solve many recent crimes, two more young men were arrested by city detectives over the week-end.

Robert Wallace and Frank Dunegan were taken in and charged with car thefts in the city police court this morning. Both pleaded guilty. Carlow is held on six charges, four involving car thefts and two involving breaking and entering.

Ronald Reid, a fourth youth who was arrested with Carlow and has pleaded guilty to four charges with Carlow, was arraigned on three more counts this morning.

Reid and Wallace pleaded guilty to the theft of a car owned by Tong Yuen and Reid and Dunegan admitted stealing a car from the Begg Motor Company on July 2.

Hugh McMillan, who is charged jointly with Carlow on six counts, was arraigned this morning with Reid on charges of stealing a car owned by C. H. Ramsey and breaking and entering Belmont United Church. On the car theft charge they pleaded guilty and on the breaking and entering count they were remanded until tomorrow morning at their own request.

In all there are now eight charges against McMillan who has pleaded guilty to seven; eight against Reid, who has pleaded guilty to seven; six against Carlow, to all of which he has pleaded guilty, and one each against Dunegan and Wallace.

Police indicated further arrests will be made.

Arabs Attack Jewish Colony; British Troops Battle Arabs

JERUSALEM (CP-Havas) — About 60 Jewish colonists were reported killed today by Arabs who attacked the Samha colony, near Nazareth. First reports said the colony had been destroyed.

ELEVEN KILLED

JERUSALEM (AP)—A patrolling squad of British troops and Palestine police today killed 10 members of an attacking band and wounded many others in beating off an ambuscade near Mount Tabor, Biblical home of the prophetess Deborah.

One Jewish supernumery constable was killed and another wounded and two British soldiers were wounded in the battle, waged in the village of Dabbourieyeh.

This clash brought total casualties in one week's bloody conflict to more than 300.

A large band, hidden in ditches, opened fire on the patrol. The soldiers and constables returned the fire.

SUNDAY CLASHES

Country-wide reports reaching the Jerusalem central police headquarters showed five Jews were killed and eight wounded in outbreaks of violence Sunday.

The second week of terrorism found telephone communications cut over the whole north Palestine, including Nazareth, Tiberius and other centres of the Galilee district.

U.S. WHEAT CROP SECOND BIGGEST

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States crop reporting board forecast today a 1938 wheat crop of 967,112,000 bushels—the second largest on record.

The Agriculture Department said July 1 conditions indicated 1938 corn crop of 2,482,102,000 bushels and a combined winter-spring wheat crop of 967,412,000 bushels.

Corn production was 2,644,995,000 bushels last year and the 10-year average, 1927-36, was 2,306,157,000 bushels.

Total wheat production was 873,993,000 bushels last year and the 10-year average, 752,891,000 bushels.

Deserted Dinghy Seen in Strait

An empty green dinghy, about eight feet in length, was seen this morning at 7 floating in the Straits about five miles off the breakwater, it was reported by G. Kemper of Seattle, who arrived here today aboard his cruiser Popeye from Puget Sound.

"It was pretty rough or we would have towed her into the harbor," Mr. Kemper said. "We were about 200 yards off her and there was no sign of any life aboard. There was nothing floating on the water in the vicinity."

ROAD BIDS ARE OPENED

Tender For Government Work Is "3 Per Cent Below Lowest Bid"

A bid of "3 per cent below the lowest tender submitted" will be considered by the Public Works Department when it awards contracts for the new Peace Arch Highway between Blaine and the New Westminster bridge, Hon. F. M. MacPherson, the minister, announced today following opening of the bids.

This tender was put in by Coast Quarries Ltd., and was not accompanied by the usual certified check to guarantee financial responsibility.

W. A. Bickell, manager of the company, said the bid was submitted in this form because his firm had been unable to get plans and specifications for the work, although repeatedly asking for them.

When the Coast Quarries tender was first opened Mr. MacPherson said it was not a regular bid.

"It's as regular as the opening of the tenders," declared Mr. Bickell. "We repeatedly asked for plans and specifications but could not get them. I want permission now to put up a check and make the bid regular."

Mr. MacPreson said he would take the matter under advisement. A few minutes later he

Hughes Party, 16½ Hours From New York, Ready to Hop Tomorrow to Moscow

After Cutting Lindbergh's Time in Two, Millionaire Pilot and Four Companions Rest Briefly at Paris While Workmen Repair Slightly-damaged Tail of Monoplane and Readjust Rudder Control; Plan to Pass Over Alaska on World Speed Record Flight, Possibly Eliminating Stop at Edmonton

PARIS (AP)—The Howard Hughes party, after spanning the Atlantic—New York to Paris non-stop—in less than half of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's time, was delayed tonight on its globe-girdling flight by bad weather and slight damage to the big twin-motored monoplane.

Hughes announced the take-off for Moscow on the second leg would not be made until tomorrow.

The American flier and his four companions had hoped to be off for Moscow within two hours after landing from their record-shattering crossing, 16 hours 35 minutes from New York. But at the last minute a slight crack was discovered in the tail of the plane. He estimated repairs would require three hours.

RUDDER ADJUSTMENT

Hughes himself was at the controls when the plane was wheeled to the runway late in the afternoon preparatory for the take-off for Moscow. But he wheeled it back to the hangar.

The delayed start gave mechanics time also to straighten out a troublesome rudder control and a snarled antenna wire which had hampered radio communications.

Weather reports placed the ceiling at from 1,800 to 1,000 feet with a fine rain making visibility bad. Airport officials said unfavorable conditions prevailed from Paris to Berlin.

ABLE TO REST

Hughes and his companions—Ed. Lund, alternate engineering mechanic; Harry Connor, navigator; T. L. Thurlow, navigator, and Richard Stoddart, radio engineer, companions, rested while airport aides supervised refueling.

OFFICIAL TIME

For the landing from New York the airport's official control time was 3.55 p.m., Greenwich time (7.55 a.m., P.S.T.), figured from the moment the propellers stopped.

The American sportsman flier glided to an easy landing on Le-Bouget field, taxiing up a concrete runway in front of the airdrome where a crowd of officials and onlookers rushed to meet the big, gleaming twin motored plane.

JOBLESS AWAY BY TOMORROW

Registration of 669 Men Completed; 170 Leave Today and 180 Tomorrow

All single unemployed who came to Victoria demanding a works program from the provincial government will be out of the city by tomorrow night, provincial relief authorities announced today.

Following settlement of the jobless campaign Saturday by acceptance of the government's offer the men have all registered with the government's special office and are being provided transportation back to Vancouver where relief will be distributed.

A group of 170 men left on this afternon's boat for the mainland, bringing to 480 the number returned. A further group of 180 will go tomorrow afternoon, completing the evacuation of the capital.

Relief officials announced that in all 669 men registered with the office here. A further 63 were arrested on tin-canning charges, bringing to 732 the total listed.

Of these exactly half, 366, were classified as B.C. residents and the other half as transients, relief headquarters said, but certain of the transient registrations were subject to reclassification as B.C. residents after further investigation.

Last Friday, jobless leaders claimed they had 825 men in addition to the 63 arrested. If this were so, about 150 did not register.

In Vancouver British Columbia men will get their first payments of $6.40 which they are expected to use going about the country looking for work. They may receive this every ten days from government offices in Vancou-

Chamberlain Declines to Tell M.P.'s If Duce's Fighters First to Go Home

LONDON (CP-Havas) — Confronted in the House of Commons today with questions from opposition members seeking assurances the Anglo-Italian accord will not go into effect until Italian fighters have left Spain, Prime Minister Chamberlain avoided any statement more precise than those he had made previously.

Lieut.-Commander Reginald Fletcher, Labor, began the exchange by asking whether the Prime Minister would give the House assurance the accord would not be ratified until the Commons had discussed it, and that the agreement would not be applied before settlement of the Spanish civil war.

"As I stated on June 1 in reply to a question," Mr. Chamberlain answered, "the agreement is not made subject to ratification, but it is provided in the protocols that its annex instruments shall be brought into force on such a date as the two governments shall determine.

"There will be an opportunity for further discussion by the House when the date has been determined."

FRANCO VICTORY

"Is it not now clear," Commander Fletcher then asked, "that the only settlement in Spain which the head of the Italian government will accept is the total victory of Gen. Franco, and if that is so, how can this agreement ever be brought into force unless the Prime Minister is pre-

ABANDON HOPE FOR TEACHERS

Search of Waterfront Fails to Reveal Trace of Missing Men

Searchers today had abandoned all hope of finding alive George E. Knight, Victoria, and Frederick Smith, Vancouver school teachers who were lost Friday afternoon when their 12-foot sailing flattie capsized off the Oak Bay waterfront.

After 70 hours' patrol by the Provincial Police boat from Ganges and volunteer craft, there was still no sign of the missing men today.

Any hope they might have sought refuge on one of the several small islands off the waterfront was dispelled by a thorough search of all possible land they might have encountered.

The two young men were believed lost somewhere off Chain Island, for which they were headed in their frail boat in Friday's heavy sea.

Their capsized boat was sighted by the Trial Island lightkeeper and picked up by the Canadian National tug No. 1, half a mile off Trial Island towards Clover Point.

Big Advance In Plane Motors

Hughes Party's Atlantic Flight Shows Gains Since Alcock and Brown

Howard Hughes' speed flight from New York to Paris demonstrated the tremendous improvement made in recent years in airplane design, technical equipment and engines.

On June 14, 1919, John Alcock and Whitten Brown took off from St. John's, Newfoundland, and the following day landed in Ireland, completing the first nonstop flight across the Atlantic. They were 16 hours and 12 minutes in the air and traveled 1,900 miles.

On May 20, 1927, Charles Lindbergh hopped off from New York in the Spirit of St. Louis for Paris and arrived there after 33 hours and 29½ minutes. He flew alone, carried 448 gallons of gas and made an average speed of 113 miles an hour.

Yesterday Hughes lifted his Lockheed plane from a runway in New York with five men aboard and 1,650 gallons of gas and landed in Paris 16 hours and 35 minutes later.

Hughes took exactly half the time Lindbergh did to make the crossing.

Canada's Problem Province

Quebec Is Jig-saw Puzzle of Dominion Politics

By J. B. McGEACHY

This is one of a series of articles by Mr. McGeachy on the present day political situation. The others will appear in early issues.

A MAP of the world—with the Fascist states marked black—was published in a recent issue of an American magazine. Quebec was marked dark grey. Quebec was described as a community which has gone part-way Fascist and where freedom of speech is to a degree suppressed.

After spending some time in Montreal and Quebec city, talking to politicians, journalists, trade unionists, propagandists and others, I have the impression that calling Quebec Fascist or semi-Fascist is putting it much too simply. Quebec politics are more like a jig-saw puzzle than a patch of solid color.

The first effect of Quebec politics on a visitor is to bewilder. To begin with, there are many more parties in Quebec than anywhere else in Canada. You hear a man called Fascist in tendency but—to know what that means—you must find out which of four or five brands of Fascism he is backing. The chances are that if asked he will deny that he is a Fascist at all...

There are at least two kinds, possibly three, of Quebec Liberal. There are the French nationalists. This month a new labor party—L'Action Democratique — got started in Montreal. There is even an incipient Social Credit group, rather discouraged now by Saskatchewan events. A French-Canadian writer, former editor of a Montreal daily, said to me: "So you propose to study

The twin-motored monoplane, above, which is carrying Howard Hughes and his crew on their attempt to girdle the earth has a number of improvements which have not yet been described to the public. In choosing it for the flight Hughes abandoned another machine on which he had spent $100,000.

WORLD SPEED FLIERS PAUSE AT PARIS

hours 35 minutes, contrasted with the 33½ hours Colonel Lindburg took for his non-stop flight from New York to Paris in 1927.

The Hughes party was hoping to complete their round-the-world odyssey within six days

A United States flag was run up on the airdrome mast five minutes before Hughes and his crew loomed over the field long before they were expected.

The big plane rolled to a gentle stop in front of Le Bourget field's main building, where United States Ambassador William C. Bullitt headed a throng of French and Americans waiting to greet the airmen.

Hughes, however, did not cut the two motors for almost a full minute after rolling to a stop.

As soon as the propellers had stopped whirring the ambassador went to the door of the plane and opened it. He put his head in and shouted:

"Congratulations. Did you have a good trip?"

DONNED NECKTIE

Hughes was the first of his crew to alight. He was evidently tired, but had a broad grin on his face. Before coming out he had taken the trouble to put on a necktie and place a hat on his head.

The flight leader was followed by the other four airmen.

"We had a fine trip," said Hughes. "We made it in 16 hours 31 minutes."

Hughes evidently figured his elapsed time from the moment the airport was sighted, as other calculations gave 16 hours 35 minutes.

French air officers stepped up to pat the millionaire pilot on the back and touch his hand.

Mr. Bullitt introduced French officers to Hughes and the members of his crew.

The five fliers went to the airport commandant's office after police had succeeded in cutting a pathway through the dense crowds cheering "Vive les Americains!"

A special ground crew took the plane in hand immediately after the crew had left it. Gasoline trucks were backed up and started immediately refueling.

ALL SURPRISED

So quickly did the plane arrive at the airport that everyone was caught unaware. The first inkling was when the plane appeared out of the clouds to descend quickly to the field.

Because the plane is of the same type as those used by a large commercial airline with a terminal here many observers thought at first the plane was simply another airliner from London.

The Hughes plane left Floyd Bennett field, New York, at 6.20 p.m. (E.S.T.), Sunday, to attempt the 3,600-mile nonstop flight to Paris.

Sixty-six minutes later, the aviators reported by radio to their flight headquarters at the World's Fair Grounds in New York that they were passing over Boston and were climbing to gain altitude.

They flew past Cape Breton Island, 700 miles from New York, at 10.20 p.m., E.S.T.

Wireless communication between the plane and the Administration Building of the World's Fair was abandoned for the first time at midnight while the fliers attempted to "triangulate" their position through contact with European stations.

The flight, the first nonstop hop from New York to Paris since Lindbergh's epochal trip in 1927, was planned as the first leg of a planned round-the-world flight via Moscow, Siberia, Fairbanks, Alaska, with a possible stop at Edmonton, Alta.

Hughes hoped to break the globe-girdling record of seven days 18 hours and 49 minutes set by the late Wiley Post in 1933.

NEAR TREE TOPS

The heavily-loaded plane grazed tree tops on the edge of the Brooklyn airport as it lifted into the air after a 45-second spin down a 3,500-foot runway.

About 5,000 people crowded the field to watch the takeoff.

A few minutes before, addressing the field crowd over a public address system, Hughes apologized for the unavoidable delay of the takeoff.

"I hope," said Hughes, aeronautical technical adviser for the New York World's Fair, "that in some measure this flight will bring about a world fellowship among aviators.

"No matter whether you are Hindu or American, as I am, if you fly you speak the same language."

SAID GOODBYE

Katherine Hepburn, the movie star, said goodbye to him at an undisclosed meeting place a few minutes before the takeoff, but she was not seen on the field.

As the five fliers walked toward the plane Hughes asked if they would unload personal baggage in the plane, to lighten the load. They assented and removed the bags, taking only razors and toothbrushes.

The takeoff came after hours of mechanical trouble and repeated changes of plans. Departure was scheduled originally for Saturday afternoon.

During that time, Hughes, 34-year-old Texan, paced nervously in and out of the hangar, giving occasional instructions in quiet, clipped phrases, and left every few hours for naps in a nearby hangar.

FROM ALASKA

NEW YORK (CP) — Howard Hughes, millionaire airman attempting a world-girdling flight, will decide when he reaches Alaska whether he will set his big silver monoplane down at Edmonton, on the last leg of his journey.

Hughes' flight headquarters here explained that Fairbanks, Alaska, one of the stopping points for Hughes and his four companions, is 3,312 miles from his New York goal. If Hughes thinks the plane can make it without a stop he will try to do so. Otherwise the party will fly 1,375 miles to Edmonton and refuel before starting the last 2,060 lap to New York.

COASTGUARD AIDS

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—United States coastguardsmen, wise in the ways of the Arctic, will be ready to offer any needed radio guidance to the Howard Hughes five-man world flight party when the millionaire sportsman's monoplane reaches eastern Siberia.

The stretch across Bering Strait to Alaska's Seward Peninsula, said Lieut. Frank K. Johnson, coastguard communications officer, probably is the most dangerous of any on Hughes' route. Fogs, clouds and driving winds make flying difficult and cut down visibility.

Cruising among the icebergs of the strait, just south of the Arctic Circle, is the coastguard icebreaker, Northland. Her master, Commander F. A. Zuesler, and his crew of 90, break the trail each summer from Nome to Point Barrow.

By the latter part of this week, when Hughes expects to fly the strait, three other coastguard ships will be in Bering Sea waters.

pared to accept this definition of settlement?"

"I do not think that is an accurate statement of the case," Mr. Chamberlain answered.

Arthur Henderson, Labor, then asked: "Can he say whether there is any truth in the statement made in The Times that both the Italian and British governments at the same time the agreement was signed expected the early victory of Franco, and that was why they agreed to these provisions?"

"I cannot speak for other people," the Prime Minister replied.

MALLORCA MENTIONED

"While I appreciate the Prime Minister's desire to get the agreement into operation at the earliest moment," said Sir Archibalt Sinclair, leader of the Liberal opposition, "will he give assurance to the House that it will not be brought into force until the Italian troops and airmen have left Spanish territory, and particularly the Island of Mallorca?"

"I am unprepared to add anything to what I have already said," Mr. Chamberlain answered as Conservative members cheered.

"Does the Prime Minister's reply to the original question imply that no operation of the agreement will come into force during the coming summer recess?" asked Frederick Montague, Labor.

"I do not thing it implies that," Mr. Chamberlain said.

ALL IS VAGUE

Miss Ellen Wilkinson, Labor, asked him to "issue some kind of statement as to what he had in mind when he spoke of some settlement of the Spanish question."

"The thing is left so vague," she added, "that no one really knows what the Prime Minister meant."

There was no answer.

Mr. Henderson later brought up the question of aerial bombardment of open cities, asking whether the government expected to end its study of this problem in time to attempt to obtain the restriction of aerial bombardment of civilians.

Mr. Chamberlain repeated that the government was doing all it could to complete its study of a very complex problem, and said he could add nothing to previous official statements.

CONCERN IN ITALY

ROME (AP) — Italian concern over continuance of the Spanish war and consequent difficulties in putting the Anglo-Italian friendship treaty into effect was reflected at the week-end in the newspaper Messaggero.

Quick termination of the civil war in an insurgent victory had been foreseen, the newspaper declared, when the treaty was drawn providing that it would go into effect after some "settlement" of the Spanish conflict.

"What difference does it make if the Pyrenees (French-Spanish frontier) are closed today since everything possible has been transferred through them which might nourish and prolong the reds' (government) resistance?" it asked.

"In these cirmcumstances the war seems destined to be prolonged beyond the period foreseen last April, which to the last-ditch fighting can have only one significance — postponement of execution of the Anglo-Italian accord.

"Has not all this altered the situation as it appeared last April? Does this constitute a danger?" the newspaper asked.

CANADA'S PROBLEM PROVINCE

Quebec politics. Ah, my friend, I have been at it for 19 years and still I do not understand."

Another puzzle is that widely different accounts of the same situation are given by Montrealers of presumably equal veracity. Ask an English-speaking magnate of St. James Street how far Fascism will get in Quebec and he is likely to say: "This is just a new form of Gallic exuberance. The French-Canadian is far too much of an individualist to fall for Fascism. And, by the way, isn't he a picturesque and lovable character?"

But an English-speaking leftist intellectual will say that freedom in Quebec is seriously threatened and that Fascist plots are hatching which — if all were known — would astound the country.

LABOR STRADDLED

Also upsetting to the visiting student are contradictions like this: In an interview at Montreal Premier Maurice Duplessis announced himself the friend of labor and said his legislation since 1936 was the most advantageous to trade unions in effect anywhere. But later the same day a veteran Montreal union leader told me: "Duplessis is the arch-enemy of labor. His legislation is intended to destroy the unions,"—and produced chapter and verse from the statutes. What is the innocent bystander to make of that?

A Montreal journalist, French-speaking, explained it cynically. "Pay no attention to what the politicians say. They will say one thing today, another tomorrow. They have no systematic political philosophy. They take up this or that new idea out of sheer opportunism. The real politics of Quebec are nothing but contracts for the big fellows, jobs for the little ones." This opinion, spoken sadly, was contradicted by other evidence. But it is a common one.

Other elements help to keep the picture kaleidoscopic. Montreal students are in politics up to their necks and, sometimes, further up than that. Political journalism flourishes. Montreal has nine daily papers, at least as many weeklies — all vigorously tooting and drumming for their particular ideas. Many of the weeklies are personal adventures. This paper is Paul Bouchard's, that one is Jean Charles Harvey's. In signed front-page pieces Mesieurs Bouchard, Harvey and others maintain controversy at a fairly high temperature. The general din makes Manitoba politicis seem, by comparison, like a summer love scene.

FRENCH-CANADIAN REVOLT

Out of the flux and medley the point which emerges most clearly is that the French-Canadian people are in revolt. They have become, since the depression, sharply aware that their city wage scales are low by Canadian standards, that their farm technique is out of date, and particularly that the capitalists and manager of capital in their province are mostly English-speaking. These are old stories, but hard times have given them a new force.

Hon. G. C. Power, a Quebec member of the Dominion cabinet, put the young French-Canadian's ideas in a speech at Toronto. Mr. Power says he thinks this way: "The land which belonged to my forefathers should belong to me. There is something false about a system which places all the natural and potential riches of our province in the hands of a very small number of individuals, and individuals who are not French-Canadians." The accuracy of Mr. Power's diagnosis can be discovered by anyone who will talk with, say, a typical student at the University of Montreal—the chief French and Roman Catholic institution of higher learning in the metropolis.

The discontent of the French people has taken several political forms. Its most spectacular expression was the defeat of the Taschereau government in 1936 by the Union Nationale under Maurice Duplessis. Mr. Duplessis ran not only on a "turn the rascals out" platform—the stock cry against a regime which has grown old and corrupt—but as a critic of the trustards, meaning the owners and managers of capital in Quebec, especially the English-speaking controllers of the great power trusts. What M. Duplessis has done or left undone to make good his plans for curbing the trustards is another story. The point here made is that he came in as a reformer and got plenty of radical support.

BACK DUPLESSIS

Mr. Duplessis' support, in fact, was highly variegated. The Fascists, under Adrien Arcand, a young French-Canadian who drills men in uniform, flaunts the swastika and circulates virulent anti-Semitic propaganda, voted for him. So did the milder corporatists who are for the Italian rather than the German model of the Fascist state. So also did the French-Canadian Nationalists who dream of a separate French republic on the banks of the St. Lawrence — a republic which might extend, they think, to include the maritimes and possibly a bit of Ontario as the French-Canadian population grows in these parts. Anti-clericals — who blame the plight of French-Canadians largely on the clerical slant of the curriculum in French Catholic schools—also voted for Duplessis.

He had behind him these and other protesting groups. Some of them could be called Fascist, others could not. Now that Mr. Duplessis is in power, the groups survive. In fact, they multiply. Mr. Duplessis has lost some of the friends he had in 1936. He has gained new ones. The point to keep in mind is the diversity of his party. Any flat statement that Quebec is going Fascist misses this important detail.

GAIN 10,000 MEMBERS

It misses also the existence of lively and many-colored opposition. The international trade unions, whose leaders generally regard Duplessis as an enemy, have gained 10,000 members in two years. The Communists still circulate Clarte, the padlocked newspaper, and managed even to hold a meeting in the Windsor Hotel last month. The C.C.F., though it makes almost no impression on the French-speaking voter, is active. The Liberals, though for the time being smitten with partial paralysis, are not dead. Politics are still — with some restraints — democratic in Quebec.

Forest Fires On Island Controlled

Forestry branch officials today reported all forest fires on Vancouver Island and the lower British Columbia mainland under control.

They said week-end rains had assisted firefighters. Reports from Great Central Lake, near Alberni, said a large fire which had been burning on the Bloedel, Stewart and Weich operations was out.

them, and also to ensure continuity and regularity of supply."

While the program of construction for the British Air Ministry is expected to be considerable, it will extend over a period of several years and will be rigidly controled on a cost-plus basis.

NO OVERLAPPING

The participating Canadian aircraft construction companies will not overlap in production of types or other features of standard equipment. Each will have its own special job, and it will be the co-ordinating company's task to pass the completed article on to the British Air Ministry. Expectation is the Canadian industry will be called on for heavy service fighting planes, similar to those constructed in the United Kingdom.

The Canadian industrialists were interested in predictions orders might attain the $1,000,000,000 figure; but they were skeptical. Their own expectations did not exceed one-fifth of that amount, with its spread extending over some years. The Weir mission emphasized Canada was not looked on as a field capable of supplying rush orders for the Air Ministry. Commander Weir had specifically stressed the long-term basis of whatever contracts Canadians might receive.

REPORT DENIED

LONDON (CP Cable) — Informed sources told the Canadian Press today there was no truth whatever in the report the British air mission to North America had asked United States aircraft firms to establish factories in Canada for manufacture of warplanes for the Royal Air Force.

An Air Ministry official termed the report to that effect carried in the New York Herald Tribune as speculative.

JOBLESS AWAY BY TOMORROW

ver, Kamloops, Penticton and Nelson.

Transients who have signed to accept transportation to the prairies for harvesting, will get relief until about August 15 at the rate of $3.05 a week. This is the usual rate of single men's relief.

While the unemployed men were going to Vancouver provincial police headquarters were arranging to ship back special officers who have been stationed in Victoria for the last three weeks.

There were no church parades yesterday.

ARRIVE IN VANCOUVER

VANCOUVER (CP)—Another contingent of 150 jobless part of the army men who trekked to Victoria to impress their demands for a relief works program, arrived here from the capital last night.

Their arrival brought to 300 the number of men who have returned from the capital since they accepted the British Columbia Government's offer of temporary relief.

The men marched down one of Vancouver's main streets, holding up traffic. After depositing the "baggage" at the Relief Project Workers' Union Hall, they marched to the Dominion Government employment office to receive meal and bed tickets for tonight.

REGINA—Fearing an influx of men looking for harvest work in Saskatchewan grain fields, Hon. R. J. M. Parker, Minister of Municipal Affairs, has wired the ministers in all provinces, with the exception of Prince Edward Island, asking that everything possible be done to stop the movement. Sufficient labor is available to harvest crops, he said.

EDMONTON (CP)—A relief conference will be held in Saskatoon on Wednesday, attended by representatives of the four western provinces, to consider joint representations to the Dominion Government concerning the problem of handling single unemployed men, Hon. Dr. W. W. Cross, Minister of Health and Relief, announced today.

EDMONTON (CP)—Warning that Alberta does not require outside harvest help was given today by Hon. W. W. Cross, Minister of Health and Relief.

Dr. Cross said he had received an inquiry from the Canadian Pacific Railway as to how many harvesters would be needed in this province.

"We have 8,000 registered unemployed men in this province and 68,000 people on relief," said Dr. Cross. "There are 2,000 single unemployed at the soup kitchen here. We have plenty of men in this province to take care of harvest requirements and do not need any from outside."

The railway company had been advised accordingly, said Dr. Cross.

Dickens Letters Sold For $18,435

LONDON (CP) — Sale of a group of more than 1,000 letters by Charles Dickens, including an outburst against the Morning Chronicle, for which he once worked, brought £3,687 ($18,435) at Sotheby's today.

A series of letters to Thomas Beard, parliamentary editor of the Chronicle when Dickens was a press gallery reporter, were bought by Messrs. Clements for £800.

A letter to Sir Joseph Paxton brought £9 10s ($47.50).

In one of his letters to Beard, Dickens told of his experiences in covering an election campaign in horse-drawn vehicles. He wrote:

"I wish to God that you could have seen me tooling in and out of the banners, drums, Conservative emblems, horsemen and go-carts with which every little green was filled. . . . Every time the horse heard a drum he bounded into the hedge on the left side of the road, and every time I got him out of that he bounded into the hedge on the right side."

BIG BATTLE IN EAST SPAIN

HENDAYE, on the Franco-Spanish Frontier (AP) — The Spanish government rushed all available reinforcements into the Espadan Mountain today to form a human wall along the last natural barriers to the insurgent advance against Sagunto and Valencia.

Insurgent dispatches said the range had been "invested," but military observers expressed doubt the insurgents had enough manpower to surround the mountains completely.

Squadrons of insurgent warplanes swept over government lines in the Espadans today in successive attacks. Reports from the battle zone said the defenders were hanging on.

Shouts of "Rats" At Mosley Meeting

LONDON (CP-Havas)—Shouts of "Rats! Rats! Down with the rats!" from a hostile crowd greeted Sir Oswald Mosley, British Fascist leader, when he attempted to speak at a meeting in Manor Place, Walworth, London, yesterday.

Five persons were arrested when mounted police broke up fist-fights between Fascist and anti-Fascists. Sir Oswald was constantly interruped by a section of the audience chanting "The Red Flag."

EUROPE AWAITS MOVE BY HITLER

Continent on Edge as Action Over Czechs Considered Certain

By JOHN EVANS
Associated Press Correspondent

BERLIN—Europe's statesmen are watching Adolf Hitler hold a match over the powder keg of war.

Everyone takes for granted the German Fuehrer will do something about the 3,500,000 Germanic minority in Czechoslovakia, but apparently only Hitler knows what he will do and when.

Europe is on edge waiting for it. France and Russia have declared they would "defend" Czechoslovakia against Germany. Prime Minister Chamberlain has said Great Britain might be unable to stay out if war came.

Germany grows stronger daily in men and arms. The hope of her adversaries is that she will devote so much to guns that her economic system will weaken, her people grown restive and some mistake or misfortune will bring her collapse.

Hitler has said Germany cannot afford to have a poor harvest. An army must have plenty of food. Yet the crop prospects this year are below average. Some think danger of small food supplies will make Hitler cautious.

MUCH PROPAGANDA

Outwardly there is no caution. Propaganda blasts from German radio stations support the Nazi movement in Czechoslovakia and tell of friction along the German-Czechoslovak border. This keeps the pot of trouble bubbling.

No one in authority pretends to be sure what will happen. There are too many "if's."

1. Czechoslovakia is negotiating with Konrad Henlein, Czechoslovak Nazi chief who has Germany's public backing in demand for almost complete autonomy for the Germanic one-fifth of Czechoslovakia's population.

2. If Czechoslovakia's Germanic Nazis were rebuffed there may be incidents, such as clashes with police that would incite the Nazis to appeal to Hitler for protection.

3. If Hitler sent troops into Czechoslovakia to "protect" the Germanic minority, no one doubts President Eduard Benes would fight.

4. An undeclared war between Germany and Czechoslovakia might not spread. France and Russia have said they would defend the Czechs, but if Hitler should move with his usual speed they might be too late. They might consider it impossible to fulfill their pledges if there weren't any Czechoslovakia left to deefnd.

ARSON VERDICT GIVEN IN OREGON

DALLAS, Ore. (AP)—A jury of farmers, housewives and a bookkeeper yesterday returned a verdict of guilty in the case of Al E. Rosser, former secretary-treasurer of Local 162, Portland Teamsters' Union, after deliberating 25½ hours.

Rosser was charged with arson in connection with the burning of the West Salem box factory.

The conviction was regarded in Oregon as the most important in the round-up of labor "terrorists" and vandals which began this years.

Rosser's conviction climaxed a series of arrests and court actions comprising a campaign against alleged vandalism and terrorism in Oregon. More than 100 have been arrested and several have already started serving jail or prison terms.

Penalty for the crime carries a prison sentence of from five to 15 years.

The West Salem Box Factory was burned last November 20. Efforts to unionize West Salem Box had been made for several months and the union claimed the efforts were being resisted by the company.

It is reported that the French air force has ordered 100 new planes from American manufacturers. This is part of the government's two-year plan to build up the air force.

Flood Deaths In Turkish Villages

ISTANBUL (AP)—More than 30 persons drowned when floodwaters swept down on two villages in eastern Turkey after torrential rains. The entire villages of Lekerich and Daghkolalar, near Erzindjan, were inundated. It was feared the final death toll might be much greater.

Former Teller Is Put on Trial

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — David L. Strom, 34, former bank teller of San Jose, Calif., was ordered into federal court for arraignment today on charges of embezzling $58,405 from the San Jose branch of the American Trust Company last year.

He was arrested in Seattle last Tuesday by Federal Bureau of Investigation agents. Strom told the agents he had spent most of the money at night clubs and on gambling and liquor. The agents recovered $7,500 of the money.

Munitions Changes Debated By C.C.F.

WINNIPEG (CP) — Nationalization of munitions plants in Canada is urged in a resolution passed by the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation, Manitoba section, in convention Saturday.

Another approved resolution urges Canada declare a definite and independent foreign policy, contending until such declaration is made no large expenditures on armaments should be made.

Discontinuance of election deposits was urged.

NEW JAPANESE CRUISERS FAIL

Mogami Class Proves Unseaworthy; Aircraft Carriers Cause Trouble

LONDON (CP-Havas) — Six 8,500-ton Japanese cruisers of the Mogami type, construction of which forced a change in the British naval program of 1934, have proved unseaworthy and are not yet in active service, according to the naval expert of the Sunday Times.

Several new aircraft carriers also proved unsatisfactory for service, the writer said in yesterday's paper, and the Japanese navy has been forced to experiment with gyroscopes, which present new and complicated difficulties.

"All six of these ships," he said, referring to the Mogami cruisers, "have failed to join the fleet at the time originally intended. Some of them have been delayed in the dockyards for more than a year while modifications have been carried out.

"These modifications have been concerned with the stability of the ships and I understand the Japanese have been forced to remove one of the main armament gun turrets to give the ships sufficient stability."

"It is impossible to assess accurately the power of the Japanese navy," he concluded, "but British naval circles consider that it can never be the force which Japan desires it to be until Japanese warship designers show fuller appreciation of the fact that seaworthiness is the first requirement of any vessel."

Each of the cruisers of the Mogami class, as designed, was fitted with 15 6.1-inch guns.

OFFICERS CHOSEN BY TRAVELERS

SASKATOON (CP)—Nels Juul of Winnipeg was elected national president of the Associated Canadian Travelers as the bi-annual national council convention came to a close here Saturday. Elected for a two-year term, Mr. Juul succeeds Eddie Williams of Saskatoon, who had led the organiation since 1936. The council held a three-day session here.

Roy Darnbtrough of Vancouver was chosen first vice-president and Mark Anderson of Saskatoon second vice-president. J. T. Berrington of Calgary was unanimously re-elected secretary-treasurer.

NORTH BAY, the Lakehead and Prince Albert advanced their bids to hold the 1940 National Council convention, but the meeting decided to leave this matter in the hands of a committee of the council executive.

Revolvers To Be Registered

OTTAWA (CP)—Royal Canadian Mounted Police headquarters today issued a statement urging the public to co-operate in enforcing the new amendment of the Criminal Code with respect to registration of revolvers and pistols, passed at the recent session of Parliament.

The amendment requires persons possessing revolvers or pistols to register them between March 1 and July 1, 1939, and periodically every five years thereafter. In 1934, when registration of weapons was first made compulsory by Parliament, no provision was made for a periodical re-registration.

The amendment, the statement said, will have "the effect of helping the public to decide whether they really desire to retain as souvenirs or for the sake of protection, pistols and revolvers which may be stolen, and therefore may be a source of danger rather than protection. In Great Britain, all weapons of this kind must be re-registered every three years."

The firearms registration section has proved helpful to various police forces throughout the Dominion in identifying firearms found at scenes of crimes or on persons arrested, the statement said.

During the recent war maneuvres the Boeing bombers were camouflaged to decrease the danger of detection.

Violent Deaths In Canada 23

By the Canadian Press

A toll of 23 violent deaths was recorded in Canada over the week-end—the most disastrous of any similar period this year.

Thirteen persons drowned—four when a motor truck plunged into the Quesnel River in British Columbia.

Seven persons were killed in automobile crashes, two in other mishaps and a young Toronto woman died of heat prostration.

Plunging into the Quesnel River, 18 miles above Quesnel, a light delivery truck carried Mrs. Frances Denby, 32, formerly of Lake Alma, Sask., and three young daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Chancey Conners, formerly of Gladmar, Sask., to their deaths.

Two deaths resulted from Vancouver traffic accidents.

A man identified by police as Sam Lanin was killed instantly Sunday night when struck by an automobile allegedly driven by Y. Tsuji, 17-year-old Japanese youth who was charged with manslaughter.

Roland Johnson, 22, died in a hospital yesterday from injuries suffered Thursday night when an automobile he was driving struck a post at a downtown intersection and overturned.

When Maurice Provist, 11, attempted to rescue Aline Nadeau, 10, in the Rouge River near Huberdeau, Que., both were drowned. Eleven-year-old Gene Morris died in Lake Ontario at Toronto. At Normandale, on Lake Erie, Elizabeth Ardely of Brantford, drowed, and in Union Pond, near St. Thomas, Ont., Douglas Kelly, 18, drowned.

Three automobiles were involved in a crash near Tilsonburg in which Delaire DeRoo was killed.

Failure to round a curve near Toronto resulted in death to Rudolph Pettigrew of Toronto. William Oprel of Preston, Ont., was killed when his motorcycle collided with an automobile. Currie Wilson died at Kitchener, Ont., after his car had collided with another.

Charles Muir, 68-year-old farmer of the Wingham district of Ontario was killed when his team of horses ran away.

Heat was blamed directly for the death of Miss Freda Wilam, 25, who collapsed while walking on a Toronto street Saturday night.

Ottawa Considers Training Pilots

OTTAWA (CP) — Government circles decline comment on New York dispatches featuring London reports to the effect a supply and training base for the Royal Air Force may be established in Canada. It is known, however, the government is considering the matter in the light of conditions arising out of the statute of Westminster.

British military forces exist only by virtue of the annual Army Act, approved by Parliament at Westminster from year to year. But, since the legislation of one self-governing jurisdiction of the Empire has no extra-territorial application, this act has no force or effect in Canada. The problem the government has to deal with is how a British force could be trained or operate in Canada, in peace time, without a special act of the Canadian Parliament.

In 1933 the Bennett government approved legislation relating to administration and discipline of "visiting forces." This provided a force could visit Canada from the United Kingdom or any other part of the Empire, "with the consent of Canada." Similiar statutes were passed in other portions of the Empire.

If that consent were unconditioned, such a force would be disciplined by its own courts and would be administered in accordance with the statutes of its own country. But the legislation contemplated only the temporary visits of small self-contained units, and not the permanent establishment in Canada of an arm of the British military forces.

It is believed Prime Minister King had this complication in mind when he advised the British government the training of R.A.F. pilots should be carried out within the structure of the Department of National Defence.

DUAL ADMINISTRATION

The government was understood to view with misgiving difficulties which would arise in having two sets of pilots at the same training station, each group administered differently from the other in matters of pay, allowances, terms of service, conditions of promotion, transfers, postings and test standards. The feeling was that, soldiers being what they are, whether landsmen of fliers, problems would inevitably arise to engender discontent, impair efficiency and, perhaps, wreck the scheme altogether.

Consideration of such prospects was declared to have influenced the government in seeking to avoid them by offering to train pilots for the R.A.F. at Canadian air bases and under Canadian conditions. It has been announced in London that an officer of the British Air Ministery will shortly be sent to Canada to survey the situation and arrange with the Canadian authorities conditions under which the project may be operated.

CAMP EQUIPMENT

Existing facilities in Canada may have to be expanded. The largest air base is at Trenton, Ont., with its numerous schools and up-to-date equipment, but accommodation is limited, and not yet sufficient for the increase contemplated in Canada's rapidly-expanding air force. Provided with accommodation, but lacking the facilities of Trenton, Camp Borden, in Ontario, may be the logical choice. A large number of war-time pilots were trained there. Instructors and machines would be brought from the United Kingdom.

In all probability aspirants for the Royal Air Force would be taken provisionally on the strength of the R.C.A.F., with the British government reimbursing the Canadian government for all out-of-pocket expenses connected with the training of those men once they had been passed into the R.A.F.

Service Funeral At Kamloops

KAMLOOPS, B.C. (CP)—The remains of Acting-Inspector William J. Service of the British Columbia Police were buried here Sunday. Full military, civic and Masonic honors were paid at one of the largest funerals ever held here.

More than 1,500 persons, most of whom knew Inspector Service before he left a month ago to take charge of provincial police in the Prince Rupert district, attended.

The inspector was shot July 3 as he sat in his office in Prince Rupert. Sergeant Robert Gibson was fatally wounded as he attempted to disarm the gunman. Mike Gurvich, who police said shot the policemen, was later slain when cornered by police.

Officers of Kamloops Lodge No. 10, A.F. and A.M., conducted the Masonic ritual. Then Rev. R. R. Morrison, pastor of the Kamloops United Church, read the commital service.

A firing party supplied by A Company, Rocky Mountain Rangers, and B Company, British Columbia Hussars, fired three volleys over the grave. Bugler A. E. Wright sounded the Last Post.

Mr. Morrison said Inspector Service had "left his stamp on our city as a man of uprightness and integrity."

In the funeral procession were the R.M.R. band, a detachment of 10 Royal Canadian Mounted Police, Provincial Police, 60 members of the Masonic Order and many others, including police officers.

Six officers of the Provincial Police who had served under Inspector Service were honorary pallbearers. Six members of the Masonic Order were active pallbearers.

The widow and five daughters probably will make their home in Kamloops.

Our Shrinking World

SIXTEEN HOURS AND THIRTY-FIVE minutes after they left New York five men alighted from a twin-motored monoplane at Le Bourget—a few miles from Paris. They had flown through 3,500 miles of space in a little more than two-thirds of a day. Eleven years ago an almost unknown aviator left the same starting point for the same destination—all alone in his great adventure—and used up a trifle more than twice the time. He was Charles Lindbergh. His solo record still stands. Howard Hughes and his four companions who landed at the great French air junction today are on an aerial jaunt round the globe and have set themselves six days for the job. May they achieve their ambition.

Aviation has revolutionized itself in the 19 years since Alcock and Brown—two intrepid British fliers—linked Newfoundland and Ireland without a stop. That memorable achievement, by the same token, took the world's memory back to the historic July Sunday morning in 1909 when Louis Bleriot crossed that narrow strip of the English Channel from Calais to Dover in 31 minutes. In the last decade, however, so rapidly has one record overtaken another, so commonplace has the procession of newer and more baffling mechanical triumphs become, that it requires the trained mind of an aeronautical expert to discuss intelligently this march of progress in the air. Thus it is left for the uninitiated to sit back and gasp and ask: What next?

Not So Bad

AGRICULTURAL AND INDUSTRIAL Progress in Canada, a monthly journal issued by the Canadian Pacific Railway Company's Department of Immigration and Colonization, notes with satisfaction the announcement from the Dominion Bureau of Statistics that Canada's retail trade showed an increase of 10 per cent in 1937. The preliminary estimate for the year puts the total sales at $2,430,000,000, still 12 per cent below the peak year of 1930, but 36 per cent in excess of the low point touched in 1933. The increases for 1934, 1935, and 1936, are 10 per cent, 5 per cent, and 7 per cent, respectively.

In plain figures the 1937 estimate of total sales of $2,430,000,000 compare with that of $2,202,203,000 in 1936. The sales in 1930 totaled $2,755,569,900, while those for 1933 were $1,785,768,000. The figures for 1930 are from the results of the complete census of merchandising establishments, which was taken in connection with the regular decennial Dominion census of 1931. Since then annual surveys have been made, and these have been related to the complete census for 1930 to give an estimate of the total retail sales for each year. In determining the trend of sales between 1936 and 1937, for the purpose of the present estimate, use was made by the bureau of the regular monthly indexes of retail trade and, in some instances, these were supplemented by a number of returns received for the annual survey for 1937.

All trade groups covered in the retail merchandise census showed gains in 1937 over 1936. The largest gain reported, the journal quoted says, was in the automotive group with the furniture and household group second and the building materials group third. The increase in the automotive group is placed at 21 per cent, furniture and household group 14 per cent, and building materials 13 per cent. Changes in retail sales are resultant of two factors: differences in quantities sold and variations in price level. Thus the increase in dollar sales in 1937 over 1936 does not indicate an exactly similar increase in the volume of goods sold. The effect of the general recession in business activity was not reflected in retail trade until the later months of the year. Although the marked gains in the earlier months were not continued to the end of the year, yet in no month of 1937 did total retail sales fall below the amount recorded for the corresponding period of 1936.

Optimist—With Reason

UP AMONG HIS OLD FRIENDS AND constituents at Prince Rupert the other day, Premier Pattullo, preparing to receive the trophy to be bequeathed to the discoverer of the secret of perpetual youth, voiced his feelings thus:

"I hope to God I will never become a pessimist. When a person becomes a pessimist it is time to lie down and die. However, in British Columbia, we have every reason for optimism."

As Mr. Pattullo very truly says, "we have every reason for optimism" in British Columbia, and he might have completed what obviously is his personal belief: We have too many businessmen and public men in this province who seem to have got into the habit of nursing a grouch whether there is any justification for it or not. For example, it has been a common complaint during the last three weeks among some Victorians, who ought to know better, that the tourist business has been shot to smithereens because some unemployed single men from Vancouver took up residence here for a few days.

Not only is this not true; the tourist business in the last three weeks in Victoria has been of much greater volume than it was 12 months ago—in spite of the fact that we have been having a little "domestic trouble," and in spite of the fact that our visitors from the south are only just climbing out of another "recession."

Let it be noted, too, and this is an incontrovertible fact, that on Government Street alone yesterday afternoon between 4.30 and 5, cars from the following states were checked:

Washington, Oregon, California, New York, Nebraska, Wyoming, District of Columbia, Indiana, Idaho, Kansas, Texas, and Minnesota.

How many more tourists would have come to Victoria if our raw recruits of the British Columbia Police had been dressed in the scarlet coats of the "Mounties"—with appropriate press-agenting—we leave to holiday business promoters to estimate. To our own professional pessimists, however, we commend Mr. Pattullo's devout philosophy:

"I hope to God I will never become a pessimist."

Our Frivolous Youth

VISITORS FROM EUROPE ARE CONtinually telling us that students in Canadian high schools and colleges are not serious enough, that they are too much interested in sports, movies, radio, dancing, clothes styles and frivolities. Their profound apathy towards social, political and economic movements is contrasted to their disparagement with the earnest students on the other side of the Atlantic, ever passionately aware of great burning issues, parading, holding mass meetings, making speeches and issuing manifestos.

But it is quite possible that the extramural frivolity on the part of Canadian students is something to be thankful for, not to be deplored. The trouble is that the politically precocious European student is quite as likely to be heading in the wrong direction on the issues he tackles as in the right. Records fail to show that the awakened and passionate German students, for instance, did anything in particular to save their country from the menace of Hitlerism. The records do show, however, that in such a country as Poland it has been the students themselves who have been in the front ranks of the growing anti-Semitic movement. They have marched in the book-burning processions in all the dictator-led countries, and they have lined up with the oppressors whenever the right slogan has been chanted in their youthful ears.

Here, we at least do not run that risk. Our boys and girls may be a bit flighty and "ignorant"—but no enemy of our liberties is going to find their organized enthusiasm a handy instrument for his use. Their very apathy during their adolescence is in itself a defence against catastrophe.

Stubborn Chinese

THE OLYMPIC NEWS, CIRCULATED BY the Japanese government to publicize the 1940 Olympic Games at Tokio, reports a recent statement by the Japanese Minister of Welfare, Marquis Koicho Kido, which it says "cleared all prevailing doubts," as follows:

"China has taken the attitude of prolonging hostilities toward Japan, but we are putting forth every effort to end this current conflict."

There are still two years left before the Olympics, says Kido, and the Japanese government hopes the conflict will be ended by that time. Tokio is nothing if not optimistic.

People are reading fewer but better books than formerly, says a librarian. The writers, however, are keeping up with the old trend.

A seal after spending 18 years with a circus blowing trumpets has just retired. He heard a swing band and decided that humans could do it just about as well.

The National Conservative Convention last week, it seems to the Financial News, probably found its most difficult problem that of making the Conservative party different from the Liberals. The way things have ended, the main difference is that the Liberals are headed by Mackenzie King and are in office: the Conservatives are now headed by Dr. Manion and are out of office.

HISTORIC CONSERVATIVE PARTY APPEAL DISCARDED WITH BENNETT

From Winnipeg Free Press

Under Mr. Bennett the Conservative party scored one of its greatest successes and suffered one of its worst defeats. The period associated with his name is one of great importance in Canada's history, and the manner in which Mr. Bennett's name will be associated with it ensures him a prominent place in Canadian politics. No man, not even the illustrious Sir John A. Macdonald, ever assumed the role in the Conservative party which was taken up and carried by Mr. Bennett. The dominance of his personal leadership and the manner in which he conducted it were both new in our political life and it may be doubted whether his immediate successor, or indeed anyone else, will attempt to imitate his technique. Mr. Bennett, in his party relations, in his conduct of business in the House of Commons, and in his negotiations with foreign countries and with our sister nations in the Commonwealth, was individual and distinct. He was sui generis, and it will be long before we see his like again.

Dr. Manion has become leader primarily because of the strength of his support from Quebec province and because of the important rally of other party elements which reject the strategy of the Old Masters of the party, Mr. Bennett himself and Senator Meighen. Thus, on the one hand, Dr. Manion comes into the leadership because of the devoted, unswerving support of the most conservative elements in the Canadian population—the French Canadians—and on the other hand has reached his ambition due to the rejection of the appeals made on traditional Tory grounds: the old historic alliance of imperialism, orangeism and big business.

Loose Ends

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

FROM SIDNEY

NO ONE CAN tell me the depression is over. Whatever the economic indices may say, you can tell that our economy has not completely recovered. You can tell by the letters to the editor. When things are good people don't think, and right now, as you can see by the tumultuous outpouring of public thought in letters to the editor, the amount, if not the quality of mental process in these parts, is higher than ever.

People even think and write letters about me. This is a serious sign. This is a sign of bad times. And a particularly bad sign is a letter from a gentleman in Sidney who says of the late G. K. Chesterton and me: "I can't see any need for them in the world, and certainly they will find no niche in the hereafter. Of course, there is always the chance that any of us may view the Promised Land. . . . The flood story has always seemed logical. The only way to reform the world is to start a new generation."

There is something cryptic about this. It must have a meaning, if you could only find it, and I suspect it is pretty mean, when you do find it. But, as the gentleman from Sidney says, it is possible any of us may view the Promised Land, even though there is no need for us in this world and no niche in the next. This is the most delicate and roundabout way I have ever seen of telling a stranger to go to hell. They have a way about them in Sidney.

DECLINE

BARON TWEEDSMUIR, who is too good a man to be merely Governor-General, has lately unburdened himself of his innermost thoughts about the times. In a speech to the students of Harvard University he said that 40 years ago a golden age dawned on the world. "In that age life was more interesting than it can ever have been before; men were bolder and more humorous; friendship was a richer and warmer thing; the world was a succulent oyster waiting to be opened. Let some new Gibbon explain how the decline began. . . . Brightness has fallen from the air and the twilight of the gods descended." And he went on at length and with eloquence to discuss the change for the worse which has come upon the world in his time.

I suppose every man above middle age will agree with Baron Tweedsmuir. This is a worse time for them. But will the young agree? Would they like it better if they could be transported back into the golden age which Baron Tweedsmuir laments? Would the young of today be satisfied with the Eighties and the Nineties, which seem rather stuffy at this distance?

Unfortunately, no. The young are bred to this age. It is not surprising and alarming to them. They are used to it, just as they are used to the mad speed of the automobile and airplane, just as they are accustomed to take their innermost thoughts and highest ideals from the movies and their philosophy of life from the radio. They are used to it and you can't turn them back into the old mold any more than you can turn a butterfly back into a caterpillar or a hen into an egg. You may not want a hen; you may prefer an egg, but you can't do anything about it, except make a speech to university students who don't understand you.

What we have all failed to grasp, we who have deplored the recent descent of our civilization, is that a whole generation of young men and women have never known anything else but descent and don't recognize it as such. Boys and girls who were 12 years old when the crash came in 1929 are of age now, about to raise families, have lived all their lives in depression, in political chaos, on the edge of war and destruction. They probably think nothing of it. It is the only kind of world they know, and probably if we were suddenly to achieve the stability of Victorian times they would be bored to tears.

The alarming thought to the middle-aged, however, is that these young people will soon be running the world entirely to suit themselves. A generation reared in such insecurity, in such excitement and fever, in such hurry and speed, will prove highly uncomfortable governors and legislators for us.

And they won't be in the least interested in our protests. When we talk about the Golden Age, when great scholars like Lord Tweedsmuir deliver addresses on the decline of our civilization, nobody will know what they are talking about. Decline, they'll say, what do you mean, decline? We're getting along fine. Why, there are two airplanes to every family now and a battleship for every 100 people in the population, they'll say. What more can you ask for? they'll say. And they'll be very sorry for the old folks whose youth was spent in the intolerable age before the minor war of 1914.

British Gave U.S. German Spy Facts

By RODNEY DUTCHER

WASHINGTON.

THE GERMAN SPY indictments in New York admittedly were achieved with "valuable assistance" from the British secret service. And all the really big fish in the spy ring got away.

A question frequently asked now in Washington is whether even any of the small fry ever would have been caught if the British hadn't been kind enough and self-interested enough to "assist."

One form of German espionage yet to be exposed is the effort of the Nazi Government to check up on bank balances and investments held by German citizens in this country. Attempts to discover technical military secrets cause no surprise in Washington. Some of the highest officials, however, believe that Germany seeks to set up framework for an extensive program of sabotage in America during the next international war. German and other diplomats believe this country would inevitably be dragged into such a war, even if only to the extent of furnishing supplies to England and France.

Although some diplomats and officers of the military intelligence service profess contempt for the "stupid bungling" of German espionage, the military intelligencemen admit that the best existent map of the United States during the last war was in the files of the German secret service. It had been made by German map-makers.

ASKS ABOUT CHAIR

To the Editor:—As an annual visitor to Victoria for years and as a lover of this beautiful city and island, may I express my opinion upon a matter which calls for immediate action.

About a year ago I was one of a large number of people who had the pleasure of helping to contribute a considerable sum of money to purchase a suitable and easily-controlled invalid chair for Leonard Metcalfe, the crippled lad who has for years been trying to earn a living for himself and members of his family by selling papers on the Causeway, and whose old chair was almost dropping to pieces, and in which he had great difficulty in getting about. Upon my return to Victoria recently I was greatly surprised and shocked to see that this poor boy is still compelled to use his old chair (and in all kinds of weather, too), owing to the fact that the new chair that was supposed to give him so much comfort and convenience, and protection from the weather, is entirely useless for the purpose, and one that it quite unsuitable for this crippled lad to handle.

Why has the money been wasted upon an unsuitable vehicle, and why is nothing being done to remedy the faults in construction of this chair so that Leonard can have the gift that was promised to him a year ago, and for which so many people gave donations to bring happiness and independence to a deserving person?

Surely Victoria citizens will not let this matter drop, but at once see that Leonard Metcalfe has the use of the promised chair for which he has waited so long!

THE GODS, FLOOD AND JAPAN

To the Editor:—When my letter forecasting the possibility of a Yellow River flood which would upset the Japanese Army appeared in the Times about a month ago, many looked upon it as a wild absurd dream of fancy. But after the thing actually happened, in reality so near to the forecast, they changed round to suspect that I must have had something to do with it, and with inside knowledge.

To all such let me affirm that not only was that impossible, but I am too far away and too insignificant an individual, for any such fore-knowledge to have been in my possession, it was only deduction. But Japanese are now putting such an exaggerated report of the effects of the flood into circulation for propaganda purposes and casting reflection on the Chinese leaders for causing such havoc to their own people. I feel that something should be presented on the other side of the case.

The whole truth may never be known, but the main fact is evident. It was one of the most effective defeats to the Japanese raiding army, that could possibly have happened, and its moral effect on the superstitious soldiers and people struck terror into the hearts of Japanese Buddhist's in Japan, and soldiers left alive in China.

The superstitious devotees in both countries will look upon it as a decree of the gods, and an indication on which side their departed ancestors are actively helping. The Japanese may be so demoralized, they will have to bring a new army from Japan to help them take the field again. Suppressed terror and fear of the gods, in the rank and file of Japanese troops is of more value to China at present than a million fresh troops would be, this they will know in Japan.

But when we come to consider the flood itself, the liberating of the Yellow River at that point, and the spreading of its waters into a natural irrigation system in that dry parched country is one of the finest things that could have happened, if they will have the sense not to try and confine the river within the old banks again. The people residing in that area are well accustomed to the yearly menace of floods from the Yellow River, and know what to do when a break occurs. They would not be so helpless as the Japanese, with no such experience, and it should be considered that if there had been no war there, the people would have been giving their usual attention to breaks in the river bank and the flood would have been held in check, or rather the flood would not have happened at all.

Let us also consider that the Japanese army had no way of counting the people drowned, except their own soldiers by roll call and the local people's knowledge of the rises and dips, in such rolling country, would assist them to escape beyond the water, on which high lands, also the crops, would not be damaged at all, and will still be intact.

But the destruction of cities by fighting, and the thousands that will be helpless and starving this year, is very real, let us here in Canada do our bit for the millions of refugees whom we can save from misery and starvation and death.

WAR ON CATERPILLARS

From Canadian Resources Bulletin

Canadian cuckoos wage incessant war on hairy caterpillars, and their fondness for tent caterpillars, so common at this time of year, make them valued allies of farmers and fruitgrowers. Cuckoos often tear apart the webs or tents of these destructive larvae to eat the inmates, and they also devour quantities of spiny caterpillars, which are avoided by other birds.

Most people associate cuckoos with clocks, but the cuckoo clock imitates the call of the European cuckoo, not the notes of the two species found in Canada. The yellow-billed cuckoo occurs in southern Ontario, Quebec, New Brunswick and in southern British Columbia west of the Coast Range.

Slightly more northern in its range is the black-billed cuckoo, which occupies southern Canada from Alberta eastward. Both Canadian cuckoos are home lovers, building their own nests and shouldering all the responsibilities of hatching and rearing the young.

The cuckoo is only one among Canada's many wild birds which, aside from the enjoyment and charm they add to outdoors, do man a service by eating millions of insects.

Should another general war break out, a total collapse is almost certain.—Harold B. Butler, director of the International Labor Office.

UNUSUAL JOBS—Pound Keeper

If he could find a home for all the loveable mutts that come under his temporary care, Alex. Kennedy, city poundman, would be happy.

For the last eight and a half years Alex. has been custodian of the strayed and forlorn dogs, cats, chickens and livestock that must find a sponsor within a week of being impounded or make their exit from this world through the lethal chamber.

The farm-raised boy who drove a horse-drawn wagon for the city when he became a man and transferred to the pound department in 1930 probably has too tender a heart for his job.

"I thought I would never stick it," he said, as he talked of the first time he had to destroy a dog. "We had the electric belts then. They were strapped around the animal and the switch was thrown. It only took a matter of a second or so once the juice was on, but I had little use for my job at that moment."

Dogs know when they are doomed. They look with eyes that seem human in their pleading when they are taken into the lethal chamber, Alex. says.

"But cats are the most unusual. Several times I have been called to houses where people have been pestered with cats that would not go away. And not infrequently the same cats that have been a constant nuisance with their presence have left before I arrive. Maybe it's instinct."

His worst job was the destruction of a big police dog. It fought for 25 minutes before it was taken from the van into the pound yard, snapping the rope which was placed around its neck in two and sinking fangs deep into the gauntlets of the poundman.

"I tried for a long time to make friends with him, but I couldn't. It took me another 15 minutes to get him into the chamber when the time came to put him away."

The poundman of today is no longer the traditional hard-hearted fellows at whom children used to hurl shrill maledictions.

"People realize we are humane officers enforcing city by-laws. We don't enjoy the part of our work that takes the life of an animal," Alex. explains.

The only way to overcome the need for the pound is to educate the people to look after their animals and treat them properly. With adequate care and training there is no need for a dog, cat or other pet to become a public nuisance, he contends.

QUALICUM GETS DRAMA SCHOOL

Qualicum Beach has been chosen as the meeting place for this year's Provincial Summer Drama School, it was announced today at the Parliament Buildings by Major L. Bullock-Webster, who has charge of the organization.

The school will open on Saturday, August 8, with a dinner at Sunset Inn, at which Dr. H. B. King, technical advisor to the Department of Education, will give the address. Classes will commence at 9.30 the following Monday morning and extend over three weeks. Women students will be boarded at the Qualicum Beach School. Men will have tent or cottage accommodation. All will eat in the school's community dining hall.

Classes will be conducted and lectures given by Larras Haydon on acting, directing, lighting and stage technique; Yvonne Firkins on stagecraft and properties; Gwendolyn N. Hewlings on school drama; Ruth Gordon on radio drama; Lilian Reid on costume history and design; Gertrude Reid on costume making; Jack Hobson on speech; Barbara West on stage diction; Archie MacCorkindale on make-up and wigs; Nancy Ferguson on folk dacing; Daisy Edwards on community drama. Guest speakers will include George Knight, M.A., Mus. Bac., Cantab., A.R.C.M., on Mus. appreciation. Mollie Bigwood has been chosen as social hostess and Jean Burnett as secretary.

A semi-professional stock company will operate in conjunction with the school and students will have opportunity of taking part under experienced directors. In addition to the daily classes, lectures and rehearsals there will be swimming, picnic and other outing parties.

"The department's summer drama school, held last year at Duncan, was so successful that it is deemed advisable to widen its scope, with a view to future development," said Major Bullock-Webster. "Qualicum provides opportunities for a delightful and inexpensive holiday, together with a thoroughly up-to-date course in all branches of stagecraft. The course aims: 1. To help those interested in improving the standard of amateur acting. 2. To help teachers concerned with school drama. 3. To provide those who may ultimately aspire to the professional stage with a foundation of sound technique and a background of general knowledge."

LADYSMITH TO VOTE ON LOAN

LADYSMITH — Citizens of Ladysmith will go to the polls soon to vote on the issue of a $20,000 loan for school building purposes. The vote may be arranged for July 25.

The Board of School Trustees have tried to get construction work under way just as soon as the vacation term commenced, but delays have made it unlikely the work will start before the end of this month in the event of a favorable plebiscite.

The plan calls for the building of four new rooms and new heating equipment for addition to the present high school premises on Market Square. The reconstructed building will then become a six grade elementary school, and the junior and senior high school grades will be transferred to the present elementary and primary buildings. The latter building will be converted into a technical school to round out the complete 6-3-3 curriculum.

Should the citizens record a favorable vote, an auditorium-gymnasium building, the cost of which is included in the $20,000 issue, will be commenced when the class-room work is completed. In connection with this, a voluntary organization, the Community Centre Committee, has undertaken to partially equip and furnish the building and grounds.

YOUNG VICAR FOR SAANICH PARISH

Rev. Canon R. L. Pierce, B.A., rector of Grande Prairie, Alta., the youngest canon of the Anglican communion in Canada, has been appointed vicar of the parish of St. Stephen and St. Mary in South Saanich.

His appointment was made by the Bishop of Columbia following conference with the church committee.

Canon Pierce is 28 and will assume his new duties early in September. He is examining chaplain to the Bishop of Athabasca and at present is completing his studies for his Bachelor of Divinity degree at the University of London.

CIVIL SERVICE OUTING HELD

The annual picnic of the provincial civil service was held Saturday at Deep Cove. About 300 of the staff of their friends attended and took part in a sports and entertainment program. Members of the cabinet were guests.

The bulk of the party went out from the Legislative Buildings in chartered buses and others followed in private cars.

Before the return to the city committees which organized the outing were tendered votes of thanks.

Want Regular Work Program

Action of the provincial government in providing temporary relief for unemployed who gathered in Victoria was approved, but speed on a more permanent method of dealing with the problem was urged in a resolution passed by the executive of the Victoria Ratepayers' Association at the City Hall Friday evening.

The meeting decided to forward to Premier T. D. Pattullo a copy of the resolution which read as follows:

"That in the matter of the present unemployment situation, this meeting of the Victoria Ratepayers' Association approves of the provincial government's determination to maintain law and order, and offer of immediate assistance to the men, but strongly urges that plans for the program of public works be speeded up to provide a more adequate and permanent means of dealing with the problem of provincial unemployment."

Reports from committees were received, relating to reverted lots and the assessment of corner residential and business sites.

Information was given of the experience of other Canadian cities in the operation and cost of municipality-owned public utilities. It was decided to present this to a general meeting of the association early in September to which the public will be invited.

STRIKING TESTS REVEAL HOW RECENTLY IMPROVED SOAP WASHES CLOTHES SHADES WHITER

THERE are many discoveries that are far less exciting, but few of greater importance in making life more enjoyable than the discovery of "scrubless" soap. One of the most outstanding of the "save work" soaps is the granulated soap, Rinso, which has helped so greatly to do away with the hard work of washday.

A new principle

For years Rinso has given millions of women whiter, brighter washes without scrubbing or boiling. It has done this by producing rich, lively suds that soak out the dirt—gently and safely luring out imbedded particles—and leaving to the housewife the comparatively easy job of scrubbing a few stubborn edges, rinsing and hanging out a dazzling white and much brighter wash.

The effectiveness of Rinso suds has been so marked that the makers of 26 famous washers have long recommended this soap above all others.

A further advancement

Recently the makers of Rinso announced that they had improved their soap. By actual test it was proven that the New Rinso gives cup for cup, over 25% more suds than the old. These suds are longer-lasting and faster-acting, too. The New Rinso gives suds that last nearly one-third longer than ordinary suds. What a blessing that is in hard water areas!

Women are amazed to see how many shades whiter the New Rinso washes clothes in comparison with old-type soaps

The New Rinso in comparison to old-fashioned soaps washes clothes brighter and at least 5 shades whiter with perfect safety.

The discovery of New Rinso may not rate a mention in the history books, but to millions of women it means better washday results, economy, freedom from hard work washdays.

Visitors' Day At C.G.I.T. Camp

Parents Welcomed Saturday By Girls At Glinz Lake

Seventy-five parents drove over the rocky road to Glinz Lake Saturday afternoon to participate in Visitors' Day at the Canadian Girls in Training Camp. Leaving the Sooke Road one mile past the Seventeen-Mile House, the cars followed the goat's trail for two miles. The small lake lies in a beautiful setting.

The visitors sat near the edge of the lake while a program of land and water sports was put on under Miss Eleanor Peden, sports director. A play was presented by the dramatic interest group. Refreshments were later served.

Miss Dorothy Beech of Vancouver, director of the camp, explained the day's routine at camp. Sixtoy-one girls between the ages of 12 and 17, left the city last Monday and will return on Wednesday morning. Each day they follow the C.G.I.T. schedule and they are taught camp craft, hand craft, nature lore, dramatics, swimming, life-saving, and each night at the campfire stunts are presented by different groups.

The camp has been fortunate this year in its leaders. In addition to Miss Beech, officials at camp are: Mrs. Walter Fletcher and Mrs. W. Johnston, nurses; Mrs. M. A. Fleming, camp mother; Miss Peden, sports director; Miss Mildred Moffat, Miss Louise Noble, Miss Lorette McCall, Miss Maureen Whitehouse and Miss Eileen Davidson, of Vancouver, councillors, and Miss Frances White, convenor of camp committee of religious educational council.

Yesterday the camp was visited by Albert Sullivan, inspector of High schools. He spoke to the girls at their afternoon gathering.

Cameo Effect At Smart Wedding

By RACHEL GAYMAN
Copyright, 1938, by the Havas News Agency

PARIS (CP-Havas)—For a wedding taking place in New York Saturday Molyneux engineered a break with convention by preparing for the maids of honor, instead of similarly-colored gowns, ones in different tones, producing a cameo effect.

Molyneux effected the change as follows: Three maids surrounding the bride wore convention length gowns in light topaz satin and sunbonnets of leghorn straw trimmed in pink.

Their straw sun bonnets were decorated with ribbons of the same topaz and pink satin. The gowns of the other six bridesmaids were of Second Empire design in the same heavy satin, but in Bengal pink shading slightly into orange, similarly hued flowers and ribbons adorned their bonnets.

The bride wore a straight princess gown, the bodice in heavy crepe only slightly draped, prolonged in a long train with flairs.

PITTSBURGH (AP)—It's love again for Charles Smith, 55, and Mrs. Elizabeth Warner, 52.

They were married in 1904, divorced 25 years later and then married second mates, who have since died.

They met by chance at the home of one of their eight children last week-end. Love bloomed again and now they are altar bound for the second time.

A reception was held at the home of the groom's parents. Mrs. Booth received in a three-piece bramble suit and was assisted by Mrs. Boniface and Mrs. J. Walker. All wore corsages of Talisman roses. The rooms were daintily decorated with sweet peas and carnations. A sit-down supper was served, the table being centred with a three-tier wedding cake.

After the reception the happy couple left for a honeymoon up-island and Vancouver. The bride donned a black tricotine suit with white accessories.

The couple were the recipients of many beautiful gifts, including a handsome mantel clock from the lady members and a silver coffee set and toaster from the men members of the Royal Colwood Golf Club, of which the bride was a former member of the staff.

The bride, given in marriage by her stepfather, Mr. A. Osborne, wore a wedding gown of ivory satin with a lace-edged train. It was designed with a deep lace yoke with an Elizabethan collar, and self-covered buttons from the neck to the waist on the back and on the long sleeves which tapered to the wrist. Her veil of tulle was confined beneath a halo of orange blossoms framing her face. She carried a shower bouquet of Ophelia roses, white carnations, sweet peas and maidenhair fern.

The maid of honor, Miss Mary Forster, wore a floor-length gown of azure blue taffeta silk with a pink ribbon sash. The bridesmaid, Miss Dorothy McConnell, wore a gown of pink net over taffeta, with short ruffled sleeves and a bolero jacket. Both wore halo hats to match their dresses and carried arm bouquets of pink carnations, pink and mauve sweet peas and fern.

Mr. Jack Roach was best man and Mr. Peter Pridmore and Mr. Stanley Hulford were the ushers. Mrs. Paul Green played the wedding music and accompanied Master Eddie Hulford, who sang "O Perfect Love," while the register was being signed.

Floral decorations at the church and reception hall were arranged by Mrs. G. Hartley, Mrs. G. Hancock, Mrs. R. Warnock and the Misses Thompson.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at Hampton Hall, where many friends extended their good wishes to the young couple. Playground Formally Opened At Solarium

Nanaimo Gyros' Generous Gift Presented Yesterday Afternoon in Presence of 200 Visitors; Venture Club, Qu-Alex Club and Malaspina Chapter, I.O.D.E. Represented

Over 200 visitors from all parts of the island gathered at the Queen Alexandra Solarium at Mill Bay yesterday afternoon for the formal opening of the new playground, the gift of the Gyro Club of Nanaimo.

Just as the sun came out at 3, C. D. Peart, president of the Nanaimo Gyros, performed the opening ceremony in the unavoidable absence of Hon. G. M. Pearson. In his address he attested to the active interest taken by his club in the well-being of the little patients, and declared that the members most directly responsible for the playground were George Darling and Peter Maffeo.

PLAYHOUSE FOR GIRLS

The playground, which covers a large area at the back of the Nurses' Home, has been splendidly equipped by the generous donors with swings, seesaws and other apparatus. An attractive little clubhouse, painted in green and white, with charming flower-filled window boxes, has been built for the girls. Mr. Peart announced that next year the Gyros hoped to complete a wading pool in conjunction with the playground.

Members of the Malaspina Chapter, I.O.D.E., of Nanaimo, were represented by a big delegation. Their regent spoke briefly of the chapter's interest in the Solarium, which takes the form of a monthly donation of fresh eggs for the little patients, a gift which the chapter has sent since the Solarium's inception.

EXERCISERS PRESENTED

The occasion was also seized by the Venture Club of Victoria to make the formal presentation of the two exercises given by its members for the physiotherapic department. Miss Edna MacKenzie, the president, formally presented the exercisers, which have been in use for two months.

Dr. J. D. Hunter, president of the board of directors, expressed the grateful appreciation of the board to the Nanaimo Gyros and the Venture Club for their generous gifts and kindly interest in the little patients. Miss F. Dorothy Andrews, the matron, supplemented the president's speech with a brief word of thanks, attesting to the valuable part such gifts played in helping the children to obtain fuller use of impaired muscles.

QU-ALEX CLUB

About 30 members of the Qu-Alex Girls' Club also visited the institution yesterday afternoon and took an interested part in the proceedings. The club first visited the Fairbridge Farm School before going on to the Solarium, in both of which institutions they take a keen and practical interest.

At the close of the formal part of the program, tea was served, while the children were treated to ice cream and pop, the gift of the Nanaimo Gyros.

JUNE REPORT

The report of the medical superintendent, Dr. Glenn Simpson, for the month of June is as follows: Admissions during June 9, discharges 13, patients in Solarium 54, patients in Jubilee Hospital 4, consultations 17, operations 5, X-rays 17, laboratory examinations 233, casts 3, reinforcements 2, dental examinations 1, physiotherapy treatments and exercises 707.

Coast Girl Is Beauty Queen Of Toronto

Diane Perkin Is Chosen In Police Contest

TORONTO (CP) — Twenty-year-old Diane Perkin of Vancouver has been in Toronto only a month but she was picked as first prize winner in the Toronto police beauty contest preliminary at Sunnyside Saturday night.

For the first time in the several preliminaries, the selection was unanimous.

Master of ceremonies Tommy McClure was so impressed by the Vancouver girl he forgot to ask her name when the judges instructed him to introduce the demure and symmetrical young miss to the crowd. Diane says that as soon as she gets a job she is going to bring her widowed mother and sister to Toronto from Vancouver.

Miss Perkin's dress, which caused many a sigh from the hundreds of girls and women among the spectators, was of dark blue silk with white polka dots, scarlet buttons down the front, with turned-out collars faced in white on a bolero-effect top. "My mother picked this dress," she told the interviewers proudly. "It's about the only one I have."

The preliminary winners will enter the finals in connection with the police games here in a few weeks.

SOOKE GALA ON WEDNESDAY

Annual Celebration Is Expected to Attract 7,000 People

The various committees planning the fifth annual All-Sooke day were putting final touches today to their plans for receiving an influx of visitors from all over Vancouver Island at the Sooke Flats on Wednesday afternoon.

Judging on the basis of previous crowds of the increasing popularity of the Sooke celebration from year to year, the organizers are expecting between 6,000 and 7,000 persons to visit the flats.

Among the latest additions to the program are a horse swimming race and a canoe obstacle race. In the latter event the two-man teams will have to haul their craft over a number of log obstacles.

Hundreds of pounds of beef and of Sooke salmon and gallons of clams will be fed to the visitors during the two great all-day barbecues planned for the day. The beef will be cooked in the style developed by the Leech River gold prospectors in the 1860's and the salmon will be barbecued in pits in the traditional Sooke manner.

The afternoon will see a continuous procession of serious and amusing sporting events ranging from swimming races to log bucking and rolling-pin throwing to tugs-of-war. In addition there will be exhibitions of tree-topping and similar woodcrafts.

In the evening dancers will have the choice of old-time and modern music in two halls.

Babies from all the rural parts of Vancouver Island are expected at Sooke to compete for the Victoria Times award in the annual "best baby" contest.

Ask Shipments To Japan End

Speaker at Chinese Friends Meeting Would Stop War Supplies

A plea for the discontinuance of shipemnts of war materials to Japan was made by Ian F. G. Milner in one of the addresses presented Saturday night at a dinner sponsored by the Chinese Consolidated Benevolent Association in the Hudson's Bay dining-room.

Attending the function were representatives of the Rotary Kiwanis and Gyro Clubs, the Chamber of Commerce, the Kinsmen Club the Victoria Business and Professional Women's Club and members of the new Canadian Friends of China Society.

If war material shipments to Japan ceased, the war could be brought to a speedy conclusion, Mr. Milner told the gathering. He extended congratulations to the newly-formed society of Canadian Friends of China and urged action to encourage formation of similar groups in other localities.

Shih Kwan, in another speech, claimed the Chinese were not fighting their own battle alone, but were fighting for ultimate world peace.

James Bertram sketched graphically his first-hand experiences on the Chinese war front.

TO SEND AMBULANCE

Dr. D. M. Ballie, provisional chairman of the Canadian Friends of China Society, described the formation of the new society and stated a move had been launched to send an ambulance to China.

Toasts were proposed to the King and to the chief executive of the Chinese Republic.

Joseph Hope, chairman of the meeting, referred to the work of Chinese in helping to pioneer this country and spoke of the friendly relationships which had existed between them and the other people of Canada.

Rev. Dr. J. K. Unsworth, H. W. R Moore, Col. F. W. L. Moore, William Allan and T. J. Goodlake spoke briefly. When asked by the chairman for an expression of opinion regarding the purchase of an ambulance to be sent to China, the meeting was unanimous in its approval.

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Lita Grey Chaplin Day was on her second honeymoon with her third husband today.

The actress was married last Tuesday to Arthur F. Day Jr., theatrical agent, but while they were honeymooning on Catalina Island, the county clerk informed them their marriage lacked legality since the bride's divorce from her second husband had not become final.

Modern Etiquette

By ROBERTA LEE

1. When you are introduced to a person as "Mary Green," how would you know whether to call her "Mrs." or "Miss"?

2. Should you eat the lettuce under a salad?

3. Is it all right to break a cereal in biscuit form with your fingers before putting cream on it?

4. When passing in front of others to reach your seat in a theatre, should you face them or turn your back?

5. Should a woman wear a hat to a movie?

What would you do if—

You are with several friends and it is taken for granted that you know a newcomer who joins the group?

(a) Act as iff you knew him?

(b) Say, "I'm sorry, but I haven't met Mr. So-and-So"?

(c) Say, "I'm Mary Jones. I believe that I haven't met you before"

Answers

1. Ask her, if there is no one about to inform you.

2. Yes, if you care to.

3. Yes, but it just as well not to crumble it.

4. Turn your back.

5. Yes, unless in an informal place like a summer resort.

Best "What Would You Do" solution—(b), or (c) if you find yourself next to him.

"SISSYFIED," SHE SAYS

To the Editor:—Why is it that men are so sissyfied and won't work these days, even if it is just enough to keep the wolf from the door, like many of us are having to do. I know several young men who won't work just because they can't get the big money they demand, and have thrown over good jobs. The whole thing is Communism, and the sooner these young men get into their heads that men like Steve Brodie are only out to make trouble and take their last few pennies the better for them. There is no reason at all why these men can't get out and work like the rest of us, instead of wanting the government to find them some soft job with big money, while they are having a good "see the island" holiday and the taxed people are keeping them. Come on you men, use your own brains for once, and with a little elbow grease see what real work will do for you before you loose the use of your legs from all these sit-down strikes!

STAMPEDE PARADE STAGED IN CALGARY

CALGARY (CP)—A cavalcade of the old and new west, marching down crowd-lined streets, ushered in the opening day of the 53rd annual Calgary exhibition and stampede today.

Sixty thousand Calgarians and visitors from many parts of Canada and the United States watched the colorful spectacle of pioneer days mingled with the new of the present day, depicting the agriculture and industrial progress of southern Alberta.

Considering the temperatures at which bottle glass, gold, and other materials melt, the heat of Mount Pele when it erupted over St. Pierre is believed to have been 1,200 degrees centigrade inside the crater.

Pittsburgh Takes Pair

Continue to Gain on National Leading Giants; Cleveland Moves Ahead

One of the time-tested ways of deciding whether a baseball team really has the stuff to make it a pennant-winner is to see whether it can come through in those tough games where one run is the difference between victory and defeat. And that's what makes Cleveland Indians and Pittsburgh Pirates look good right now.

When the Indians staggered through to an 8 to 7 victory over St. Louis Browns yesterday, it was their third straight one-run victory and their 16th in 24 games that have been decided by that margin this season. Incidentally, it gave them a two-game margin over New York Yankees, who dropped a 6 to 4 decision to Boston and Lefty Grove.

Pittsburgh, sweeping a double-header with St. Louis Cardinals to run its winning streak to 11, has done even better in that line. The Pirates had little trouble winning the opener, 5 to 2, behind Cy Blanton, then came through, 4 to 3, in the afterpiece. That was their 21st one-run triumph against six defeats. The Pirates wound up two games behind New York Giants, who belted out a 5 to 2 victory over Boston Bees.

A new threat to the Giants is Cincinnati, who scored their third straight victory over Chicago Saturday, 3 to 1.

Washington advanced to fourth place in the American League, and Detroit dropped from a tie into fifth as the Senators won two games from the Philadelphia Athletics, 5 to 3, and 8 to 7, while the Tigers lost, 5 to 4, to Chicago White Sox.

Brooklyn Dodgers and Philadelphia Nationals divided a doubleheader in their "cellar" series, Brooklyn winning the opener, 6 to 3, and the Phils the nightcap, 5 to 3.

COAST LEAGUE

Coast League baseball fans got their money's worth yesterday with a no-hit no-run game, three shutouts and three overtime tilts.

The Los Angeles Angels thrashed the Oakland Acorns twice to gain a game on the league-leading Sacramento Solons, who divided a pair with the erratic San Francisco Seals.

In the first game it took the Angels 10 innings to beat the Oaks, 5 to 4. In the second game, "Jittery" Joe Berry came within two walks of pitching a perfect game as he turned back the oaks, 4 to 0.

Old Pard Ballou pitched two-thirds of an inning when he relieved Sad Sam Gibson in the first game between San Francisco and Sacramento, but got credit for the win, 11 to 5. In the second game Sacramento came from behind to win, 3 to 2.

Hollywood won two overtime games from the sinking Portland Beavers, 5 to 4 and 1 to 0. The opener went 16 sizzling innings. Ken Douglas went the distance for Portland.

Seattle and San Diego were still tied for the fourth spot in league standings after sharing a pair. Seattle nosed out the Padres, 5 to 4, in the first game. In the second game the Padres shut out the Seattle outfit, 5 to 0.

Sports Mirror

By PETE SALLAWAY

BILL McGOWAN, topnotch American League umpire, says that 55 per cent of major league baseball pitchers deliver the ball illegally one way or another.

Mechanical pitching faults are plentiful in the big show, and old and outlawed tricks are still in use.

Stressing the fact that he is not picking on Johnny Allen or the Cleveland club, as charged by the fiery righthander, McGowan uses the two great mound stars of the Indians as examples.

Allen spits in his glove and rubs the ball therein, and umpires and rival managers and players assert that there is too free use of resin in connection with his clothing.

Bob Feller . . . consciously or not . . . goes to his mouth, and jumps the rubber. The Iowa farm boy steps back with his left foot as he starts his windup.

"I told Feller in Cleveland the other afternoon that he must quit taking his fingers to his mouth for his own good," explains McGowan. "Jimmy Dykes and others have complained about it, and unless he breaks the habit, he'll shortly have 23 opposing players and a manager shoutin gat him every time he starts. That wouldn't figure to help his control, and control is all he needs."

Pitchers have cut the seam of the ball with sharp thumb nails and on belt buckles.

They have discolored the ball with mud, licorice, coffee, and whatnot.

They have roughened it with sandpaper, emery, and finger-nails to make it do tricks.

Two swipes on his trouser leg, and Eddie Cicotte of unhappy Black Sox memory had one side of the sphere shined like a ballroom slipper.

Others went to more trouble. They shined one side of the ball and blackened the other, creating a dazzling black and white effect as the ball streaked to the plate.

Loading the seam with mud made the ball dart into unexpected directions.

Howard Ehmke actually stuck chewing gum on the sphere in the first game of the 1929 world series.

Fellows with unusually strong grips have been able to loosen the cover . . . and thus toss a "punk" ball.

It was the famous fluttering cuff of Dazzy Vance that brought about the rule prohibiting pitchers from working with ragged or slit sleeves which have the effect of confusing the batter.

Joe Vance, who had a trial with the New York Yankees this spring, wore a shiny ring on his pitching hand while with the Chicago White Sox for a brief spell four or five years ago.

More common mechanical faults are:

Not having the back foot in contact with the rubber.

Taking a step, or crowhopping with the front foot in delivering the ball.

Not coming to a stop before pitching with men on bases.

Moving the shoulders, head, arms, feet, or fingers after coming to a stop.

Not stepping toward first base in attempting to pick off a baserunner.

Failure to first back off the rubber after coming to stop in holding men on bases when not in the act of delivering the ball to the plate or throwing to bases.

McGowan and all other umpires will tell you that they'd spend half their time running to the box if they did so in response to every mechanical defect and infringement of the rules.

The umpires' job is, as McGowan explains it, to prevent hard-boiled and old offenders from getting away with anything, to school youngsters like Feller in pitching regulations, and in general to keep illegal pitching down to a minimum.

The Pacific salmon takes no food after beginning its spawning journey. The fast ends only with the death of the salmon.

Churchmen And Incogs Victors

Defeat Albions and Cowichan in Cricket League Matches

Despite a sparkling 103 by E. S. Fox, Cowichan batsmen failed to fathom the bowling of the Wenman brothers, Godfrey and Reg, and went down to defeat by 23 runs in their Victoria and District Cricket League match against the Incogs at Duncan Saturday.

In the other important game of the day Five C's took the measure of the Albions by 106 runs at Beacon Hill.

With two wickets down, Fox took hold of the Incogs bowling and lashed out for his century, but his batting mates fared badly. C. Green managed to put on 17, while other up-islanders went down for totals less than 10, four getting ducks. Reg Wenman headed the Incogs' attack with 42 and took four wickets for 40 runs, while Godfrey took five for 17.

ARE UNDEFEATED

Led by Alan Griffin, who scored 66, Five C's continued their undefeated league schedule with a handy win over the Albions. They put on 182 and then dismissed Albions for 74 with Hepworth and Jack Payne bowling smartly to take six wickets for 32 and four for 40 respectively.

In a friendly at Macdonald Park Ley's eleven defeated Mitchell's team. The latter put on 143 for five and retired. The winners scored 154 for seven.

Todd Cup Final At Oak Bay Club

Finishing with a net score of 127 for the 36-holes G. K. Verley won the Todd Cup at the Victoria Golf Club yesterday. Verley had a gross score of 141. In second place was Irving McDermott with 155-24-131, with H. F. Hepburn third with 158-24-134, and J. P. Paret fourth with 163-28-135. There were 21 entries.

Up and Over---But He's Out

Combining the best features of the high hurdles and night baseball at Miami, Fla., this baserunner took to the air when he found the catcher waiting with the ball. Note the ball in the catcher's hand just tagging the spot where the runner ought to be. The runner hurdled catcher, ball, and all, and came down on the plate, but the umps yelled, "You're out!"

Cooper Uncorks Blistering 67

Is Five Under Par to Top Field in U.S. Professional Golfers Championship

SHAWNEE-ON-DELAWARE Pa. (AP)—Harry Cooper, the most consistent golf pro in the United States and a hay fever sufferer, subdued his sneezes yesterday in the first 18-hole qualifying round for the Professional Golfers Association championship and shot a five-under-par 67 for first place in a field of 108 starters.

Though Harry's putter was as hot as the sun that blazed down on the pancake-flat fairways of the Shawnee Country Club, others also found course and conditions to their liking. Eighteen broke par and six equalled it, leaving Cooper's brilliant round good enough only for a one-stroke lead.

On the heels of Cooper, who holds the Canadian open title, came Frank Moore of Mamaroneck, N.Y., older brother of Terry Moore, St. Louis Cardinal outfielder. Moore, with 68, was a stroke in front of a trio consisting of Henry Picard, Hershey, Pa., stylist; Sam Snead, a disappointment in the national open, and Terl Johnson of Norristown, Pa., an infrequent tournament competitor.

GUILDHALL HAS 70

Of the five former champions, including defending titleholder Denny Shute of West Newton, Mass., little Paul Runyan made the best showing. The White Plains, N.Y., star shot a 70 that put him four strokes ahead of Shute and in a tie with the United States open champion Ralph Guldhal. Dick Metz, Chicago, and Marvin Stahl of Lansing, Mich., also had 70's.

It was estimated a score of 138 or thereabouts would be needed to win the Alex Smith Memorial Award that goes to the medalist, and that 150 or better would be needed by the 63 players who, with Shute, begin match play tomorrow.

LOCAL C.P.R. PLAYERS WIN

The return match will be played at Vancouver in August. Three singles matches yesterday were not completed yesterday and will be played out when the teams meet again on the mainland.

BELLINGHAM WINS PAIR

Defeats Victoria All-stars 6 to 1 and 9 to 1 in Baseball Games

Smashing out a total of 27 hits, including a home run by Paul Smith over the left field wall in the afternoon, and nine other extra base knocks, Superior Meat Market baseballers from Bellingham took two games from the Victoria All-stars at the Athletic Park on Saturday. The visitors won the afternoon fixture 6 to 1 and the nightcap 9 to 1.

Pushing home five runs in a great eighth-inning rally on six hits, five of them for extra bases, Bellingham broke up a tight ball game in the afternoon. Up until that point the locals had held the visitors to a 1 to 1 tie.

Young Lonnie Murray worked on the mound until the visitors got to him in the eighth, when he was replaced by Sonny Walker. Murray did well until he got himself into the bad hole and his exhibition was appreciated by the big crowd. Sammy Baker went the nine innings for Bellingham, allowing six hits, while he struck out the large number of 17. Bellingham got to the local hurlers for 12 hits, Murray allowing 10 of them.

Taking a three-run lead in the second inning the visitors were never in danger in the evening exhibition. They poled out 15 hits from the offerings of Ray Maitland, while Dunlap, working for Bellingham, was found for only eight and they were plenty scattered. Dunlap struck out nine and Maitland five.

Vancouver Ace Wins Shootoff

Defeats H. S. Holloway Also From Mainland City; Woman Shot Thrills Crowd

Putting on the best score among the British Columbia shooters, J. A. Garrett, Vancouver, carried off the provincial 100-target skeet championship yesterday in the first annual championship meet staged on the fine shooting grounds of the Victoria Skeet and Gun Club on the Albert Head Road.

H. S. Holloway also of Vancouver finished in an 88 deadlock with Garrett in the first 100 targets but the latter won the 25-bird shootoff, powdering 21 to Holloway's 18. In capturing the championship the Vancouverite won the gold-plated challenge trophy presented by Lieutenant-Governor E. W. Hamber.

The most popular figure at the meet, however, was a woman, Mrs. E. B. Hockwalt, Seattle, four times women's champion of Washington State, who won the British Columbia championship for high gun for nonresident shooters. She won the well-earned plaudits of a large and appreciative gallery which watched her march through to post a 95 out of a possible 100.

HAS PERFECT SCORE

In the second leg of the main shoot, Mrs. Hockwalt marked up a perfect score, bagging 25 out of 25—a feat that has never before been accomplished on the local club's grounds. She was a veritable streak of lightning with a firearm and was a treat to watch. She recently distinguished herself in Vancouver by breaking 83 straight skeets.

Besides taking the high gun honors the Seattle woman posted a 42 out of a possible 50 to win the 20-gauge open event and was followed by her husband, Col. Hockwalt with a 41.

The American team composed of Col. and Mrs. Hockwalt and H. D. Taylor, Seattle; Rod Fleek and Al Sund, Mount Vernon, took top honors in the five-man open team shoot by marking up 108 out of a possible 125. The Canadian team was second with a 98.

More than 70 shooters from many parts of the Pacific northwest took part in the classic, which was an outstanding success and well handled by the local club.

Competition was keen in all events, much to the delight of the gallery, which by midafternoon had swelled to about 500. The spectators particularly enjoyed the fine exhibition put up by Mrs. Hockwalt, who has won skeet shooting fame in many parts of the United States. The largest delegation was from Port Angeles, 15 shooters.

Showers prevailed in the morning but weather conditions were excellent during the afternoon.

The two trap layouts were kept busy all day also, with many special prize events being run off.

CANADIAN IS RIFLE LEADER

Capt. T. E. Hayhurst, Windsor, Scores Possible in Match at Bisley

BISLEY CAMP, Eng. (CP)—With a perfect score of 50 despite rain and a strong wind, Captain T. E. Hayhurst of Windsor, Ont., today tied with three other marksmen in the Daily Telegraph Cup match as the National Rifle Association's Empire meeting opened its second week.

There were 1,000 marksmen, the best shots of the Empire, in the Daily Telegraph shoot. Like the first week, the second and last week opened today in miserable shooting conditions, with heavy clouds, occasional rain and strong wind.

The Canadian team as a whole shot excellently in the day's feature match. Aircraftsman T. W. Gregory of Ottawa was only one short of a possible with 49. Lieut. Steve Johnson, Calgary; C. F. Kennedy of Hilden, N.S.; Sergt. J. Santster of Winnipeg, and Sergt. N. L. Beckett of Hamilton scored 48.

OTHER CANADIAN SCORES

Other Canadian scores in the Daily Telegraph follow: Lieut. William Ewing, Montreal; Lieut. G. A. Molecey, Vancouver; Sergt. L. S. Vaines, Montreal, and Lieut. F. F. Morwick, Guelph, Ont., 47; Sergt. Gibault, Vancouver; Sergt.-Major R. Kiddie, Toronto, and C.W.M.S. H. C. Hamilton, 46; Sergt. R. Ziola, Ottawa, 45; Sergt. M. B. McIntyre, Toronto; C.S.M. George Emslie, Toronto, and Lieut. N. Colville, Vancouver, 44; Sergt. M. F. Dillon, Ottawa, 43.

Scoring fell off when the marksmen went to the long 1,000-yard range for the Corporation of the City of London Match for a silver cup and $1,000 in prizes. The veteran Emslie turned in 46 out of a possible 50. Kennedy and Ziola had 45, Sangster, Colville and Beckett, 44; Gregory and Johnson 40; McIntyre, 39; Hayhurst, 36, and Molecey, 34.

Weight Champ

Bill Watson, shown throwing the discus, paced the University of Michigan track and field team in the Big Ten championships in Columbus. In the trials, the negro star tossed the shot 52 feet 11½ inches to beat his own Western Conference record. He led the discus throwers with 152 feet 4¾ inches, and the broad jumpers with 24 feet 11¾ inches. He was the defending champion in those three events.

North Shore To Represent B.C.

Defeats St. Andrews 2 to 0 in Provincial Final of Dominion Cup Soccer

VANCOUVER (CP) — North Shore United, who have yet to taste victory in Dominion soccer play despite years of campaigning, today carried British Columbia's banner into the hunt for the 1938 national crown.

Uniteds, who only came close once—in 1931 when they were beaten in the Dominion final—downed Vancouver St. Andrews 2 to 0 in the provincial final here Saturday. The victory gave them the right to meet Calgary Callies, Alberta champions, in the far west playoff here next Saturday.

A goal by Alex Christie from Mike McManus in the first half and one by McManus from Reg Liptrott in the second half, did the trick against the favored St. Andrew outfit Saturday.

To the winner of the far west title this year will fall the task of balancing the Dominion championship scales in favor of the west. Since Dominion competition was first started in 1913, the east have won the title 11 times and the west have the same number of victories.

Play in Saturday's final began at a fast pace and Stan Stronge, Saints goalie, and Jack Rabbitt, in the North Shore net, were called upon time and again to save.

OPENING GOAL

The opening score came after 20 minutes of play. Mike McManus, United's smart centre-forward, centred to Alex Christie, and the left-winger made no mistake with a header into the corner of the net.

Uniteds almost scored again when McManus fired with a terrific drive which hit an upright. St. Andrews broke through North Shore's defence only occasionally, then only to be met by a formidable barrier in Rabbitt.

St. Andrews missed a chance to score in the second half when their left-winger, Stephen, got in close, but drove over the bar in his anxiety to put the ball in.

North Shore's second goal came halfway through the second period to put the game safely away. Reg Liptrott centred perfectly from the right wing and McManus gathered in the ball and drove it high into a corner.

Tommy McNeill of St. Andrews was injured a little later and the Saints were forced to play the remainder of the game with only 10 men. Two substitutes, Hortin for Stronge and McNeill for Dave Brown, had previously been made.

Victoria Rifleman Captures Grand Aggregate as Provincial Meet Closes

NORTH VANCOUVER (CP)—A score of 74 on the last range, added to two 48's on the first and second ranges Saturday gave Company Sergt. L. Willoughby of the Seaforth Highlanders, Vancouver, the Lieutenant-Governor's match at the British Columbia Rifle Association's annual meet here.

The win carried with it the Dunsmuir Cup and the British Columbia Rifle Association gold medal.

Two points back was Pte. E. Nicolson of the Esquimalt Garrison, Victoria. He scored 77 on the final 900-yard range and equaled the winner's 48 on the 300-yard test but managed to collect a score of only 44 over 600 yards.

Doug Rennolf of the Vancouver Rifle Association was third with 43, 45 and 74 for a total of 163; Fusilier I. M. Grant, Irish Fusiliers, Vancouver, posted 44, 46 and 72 for 162, to take fourth position, and Sergt. A. Ashe, Canadian Scottish, Victoria, scored 47, 44 and 71 for 162 and fifth place.

Lance-Cpl. S. S. Ross of Esquimalt Garrison, who was leading at the end of the first two ranges, did not do so well on the last range and scored 68 to bring his total to 162 and drop him into ninth place.

AGGREGATE

Sergt. A. E. Ashe of the Canadian Scottish, Victoria, captured the grand aggregate and British Columbia championship. His total aggregate score of 704 gave him the Governor-General's silver medal, the British Columbia Bond Corporation Cup and the British Columbia Rifle Association bar.

Pte. E. Nicholson, Esquimalt Garrison, Victoria, was second with a score of 701. He won the Governor-General's bronze medal and the British Columbia Rifle Association silver badge.

Third place in the Grand Aggregate was also taken by a Victoria sharpshooter, Sergt. J. H. Regan, Canadian Scottish, collecting 700 points to win the Dominion Rifle Association silver medal.

Csm. L. C. Willoughby, Seaforth Highlanders, Vancouver, was fourth with 699. He was awarded three Dominion Rifle Association bronze medal while the British Columbia Rifle Association's silver medal went to Cpl. G. S. Carr, Royal Canadian Ordinance Corps, N.P., Victoria, who was in fifth position with 699.

Honk, Honk!

The young man-about-town had a new car. Seeing an old friend walking up to the tram stop, he offered him a lift into town.

As the machine roared along at 60 through the thickest traffic, and round some awkward corners, the proud owner pointed out the multiplicity of gadgets, fittings, extras, and devices that adorned the car from bonnet to tail-light. As they pulled up, the owner asked the passenger for his honest opinion. The latter alighted and ran his eye over the collection of sumptuously plated gadgets on the dashboard.

"You've got a nice collection of odds and ends there, my boy," he admitted. "All you want now is a nice, steady, sensible chauffeur!"

Slag has been found to be of use to the oyster industry. The problem of finding material to which the young oysters could fasten themselves was solved when some slag was lost overboard from barges.

The longest non-stop air mail route in the United States is 542 miles long, and lies wholly in the state of Texas.

"I Haven't Seen Mother for Years but I Telephone Her Regularly"

"Mother lives in the east and I haven't been able to get home to see her for years. But now and then I call her up by long-distance telephone and have a little chat. Telephone transmission is so good these days that we hear each other's voices very clearly, and mother says in her letters that it sounds just as if I were actually there with her. I can tell that she enjoys my calls very much, and I must confess that I get a great deal of pleasure out of them myself. The cost is moderate and I figure that the money is well spent."

Find Note In Beer Bottle

Lost Flier's Name Printed, But Cap to Bottle Made in British Columbia

Ernest Cruickshanks and James Loftus were sitting on the Island Tug and Barge Company's dock, in the Inner Harbor, this morning when they spied a floating beer bottle with a piece of paper inside.

The bottle had a large cork in it and two other corks were attached to the bottle's neck.

They fished out the bottle, opened it and read the following note, printed in indelible pencil on a piece of tissue paper: "Please send help to Honalula at once or i will starve. Emelie Earheart. I am in a little shack on west point."

The men examined the cap on the bottle. It read "Westminster Brewery Limited."

They believe someone had an unusual idea of a joke.

Amelia Earhart was lost one year ago flying over the Southern Pacific.

PREPARE LIST FOR APPEALS

Approximately 280 Relief Cases Declared "Unemployable" to Be Contested

Appeals will be taken to the Minister of Labor, Hon. George S. Pearson, on approximately 280 relief cases declared "unemployable" by the Employment Service of Canada, it was learned at the relief office today.

The action is Victoria's reply to the offer made by Mr. Pearson to permit a right of appeal on such cases from decisions reached by the employment service officials.

The new list of contested cases included the majority of those considered by J. H. McVety of Vancouver, head of the Employment Service.

Subject to minor change the list includes 125 married cases out of 453 receiving relief in the city, 94 of 205 single men registered and 61 of 155 women on the rolls.

Under the new government regulations announced last week, responsibility for such cases is divided on a 60-40 basis between the city and the government, with the former taking the larger share.

DRAFT NAVY WEEK PLANS

New Features Included in Program By Committee in Session Today

New developments in the city's plans for the celebration of Navy Week here at the beginning of August were discussed by the celebration committee under the chairmanship of Alderman W. H. Davies at the City Hall today.

Included in the program, complete details of which have not yet been made public, will be a Pacific fleet boxing championship tournament open to both Royal Navy and Royal Canadian Navy athletes. Other items on the schedule are soccer, lacrosse and baseball games, track, field, and water sports, and other athletic activities as well as a big smoker concert and various social functions.

Alderman Davies expects the mayors' conference on August 4 to be a major highlight of the events this year. On that day chief magistrates or their delegates from Pacific northwest cities and towns will gather here to discuss co-ordination of festive occasions next year with a view to diverting visitors from San Francisco's exposition northward on a trip complete with festivals in the various centres.

The meeting, invitations to which have been sent to 33 mayors, will be preceded by a big old English dinner, cooked in traditional style.

SOVIET-JAPAN WAR FORESEEN

Hillis Lory Tells Summer School First Round Being Fought in China

"There is a growing conviction that there will be war between Japan and Russia, and the final victory will depend on the outcome of Japan's present war in China," Hillis Lory, who for three years was on the faculty of Hokkaido Imperial University, Japan, told the Victoria Summer School of Education this morning.

His address, entitled "New News From Old Asia," was built largely around his own experience in China, Japan, Manchukuo and Russia.

He believed that Japan stood to lose in the end. It might win the present war in China, but any attempt to hold more than a fraction of the country would prove the old saying: "You can do anything with a bayonet except sit on it."

Some Chinese statesmen believed the first battles of the second Russo - Japanese war would be fought on Chinese territory.

Mr. Lory quoted what he had seen both in Manchukuo and Siberia. In Manchukuo Japan was building one of the greatest military bases in the world. Masses of Japanese troops, there theoretically to fight bandits, could move to the Siberian border over four railway lines and four highways.

The border itself was a triple line of barbed wire and rows of trenches stretching across flat country on which Japanese and Russian troops manoeuvred within sight of each other.

In Siberia he had found the country almost a single armed camp, swarming with infantry, cavalry, bombing planes, tanks and guns.

At the moment there was a migration into Siberia, encouraged by the Soviet government, which paralleled that of last century into the west of the United States.

CHOICE OF MASTERS

In China, while the Russians were penetrating quietly west and south out of Mongolia and the Japanese driving east and north, towards each other, Mr. Lory found the main issue was which would be the better master, Russia or Japan, if China could not be its own master.

Some of the Chinese believed the Japanese were better as being racially closer, but the general feeling was that the Russians, who had money and territory, would be only the political masters of the country, while the Japanese would control it territorially and economically as well as politically.

Mr. Lory has no doubt that the Chinese would eventually absorb the Japanese if they came out the conquerors. "China has powers of digestion that are enormous," he said.

He did not believe that the breakdown of Japan would come from within. The military tradition had been bred in the Japanese people for too many years for the post-war democratic movement to have any lasting strength, he said, and with the militarists in complete control of every part of the government, including the education of young Japan, there was little chance of a change.

A full program of extra-curricular events has been arranged for the rest of this week.

Tomorrow morning at 11 W. P. Weston, A.R.C.A., will give the second of a series of lectures on art appreciation, dealing with line, tone, mass, function and congruity in design.

On Wednesday morning the school will hear a recorded program of some of the world's finest music, given on the electrical reproducing machine presented to the Department of Education by the Carnegie Foundation. Stanley Bulley will give interpretative comments on the program, which has been given the title of "The Listening Hour."

On Wednesday evening at 8.15 John Claire Monteith, concert and oratorio singer, will combine lecture, pictures and song under the title of "Sun and Silence in Death Valley." He has spent years of research in the desert and Indian lore of western America.

Dean Ernest W. Tiegs of the University of southern California, one of three outstanding United States educationists who are giving courses at the summer school, will present his first extra - curricular lecture on Thursday morning at 11. His subject will be "Some Contributions of Measurement to Teaching and Learning."

Mr. Weston will give his third art appreciation lecture on Friday morning, dealing with architecture in its relation to the fine arts.

The weekly dance of the school will be held Friday evening at 8.30.

At 1.30 Saturday afternoon Miss Dorothy Gordon Cox will conduct a group of students on a nature ramble.

All Processed Berries Shipped

All strawberries processed in Victoria in 1937 and 1938 have now been shipped from Victoria.

Norwegian freighter Norme last week took 1,000 barrels, the remainder of last year's crop and all that was left of the 1938 crop, to Glasgow, where jam manufacturers will use the local berries with berries from Holland and Denmark.

Each barrel in last week's shipment contained 350 pounds. About 300 barrels of the shipment were left from last year's crop.

Island berries contain four to ten pounds a ton premium over berries grown on the mainland, and are in great demand by United Kingdom jam manufacturers, who find they give color and bulk to the berries from the continent.

SHAWNEE-ON-DELAWARE, Pa. (AP)—Frank Moore of Maroneck, N.Y., older brother of St. Louis Cardinal outfielder, Terry Moore fired today his second straight 68, four under par, for a record-equaling 36-hole score of 136 that virtually assured him of the medal and the Alex Smith Memorial Trophy in the qualifying round of the National Professional Golfers' Association championship.

Herridge Plan Seen By Ottawa as Veiled Dictatorship

By NORMAN M. MacLEOD
OTTAWA

WHEN Hon. W. D. Herridge declared in his recent speech at Halifax "I am not a candidate for the leadership of the Conservative Party," it is the opinion of Parliament Hill that he simply wasted good breath on an entirely unnecessary statement.

For before becoming a candidate for the Tory leadership, it is obviously more or less essential first to become a Conservative one's self. But as Federal circles view the numerous speeches of the former Minister to Washington over the past several months, he is a long way from having qualified himself in this initial respect. He might conceivably be regarded, with his emphasis upon purchasing power, as a supporter of Social Credit. Or he might more readily be conceded to be well on the road towards Fascism. But by no process of reasoning, is it considered, could his amazing phrase-making marathons possibly constitute good Conservative doctrine.

Consequently, when Mr. Herridge formally disavowed any Tory leadership ambitions, Parliament Hill feels that he simply indulged in a statement which was wholly superfluous, having regard to the fact that never was he in the running.

Actually, the criticism which it applies in the present instance to this one statement, Parliament Hill would have been disposed to apply to previous speeches of the former Minister to Washington almost in their entirety. So far as political circles in the Capital can see, no good reason for the deliverance of any of them can be argued. They belong within that abundant category of oratory which, if it had never been born, would not have left the world any poorer.

THE more recent of the Herridge speeches, however, is looked upon as different. It is looked upon as different because, in the opinion of impartial Federal circles, if the former Minister to Washington wishes to continue to hold the interest or the curiosity of the people of the Dominion, he never should have delivered it. In other words, it is regarded as the exposure which Parliament Hill considered to be inevitable soon or later of the utter inadequacy of the Herridge remedies, despite the pretentious flourish with which they were put forward.

Mr. Herridge is recognized in his Halifax speech as having made the tactical error, from the demagogic point of view, of making the details of his panacea for poverty and all other economic and social ills fairly specific. Canada, he says, must import only the goods which she does not produce efficiently herself. She must export through Government agencies the products which she produces in such abundance as to yield her a surplus. She must guarantee a minimum price to the primary producer. This three-fold program is the widely advertised "plan" which the former Minister to Washington has been heralding as the sure recipe for Canadian prosperity and as the harbinger of a new heaven on earth in the Dominion.

IN HIS previous orations Mr. Herridge has built up the lively expectation that with the disclosure of his economic plan wisdom would be born into a world of folly. The comment on Parliament Hill now that the plan has been revealed is to the effect that if it represents the birth of wisdom, then wisdom has been still-born. It is the old dream of a closed economy for a nation which other countries have tried and found productive only of ultimately greater depression and final disaster. Essentially, it is the Rooseveltian policy of a planned economy, and Mr. Herridge does not explain how a system which has failed so spectacularly in a neighboring country is going to succeed in Canada. "Today in government," Mr. Herridge says, "to do nothing is to do wrong"—despite the evidence in the United States and other countries that the more the government interferes the worse conditions become.

Parliament Hill views Mr. Herridge's effort as a rather amazing exhibition of muddled economic thinking. The former Minister to Washington spoke of "the money power" in the country and of its interest in maintaining low prices and poverty. An elementary student in economics knows, however, that the so-called "money power," along with every other department of the national economy including the workers themselves, reap their most satisfactory profits in a period of rising prices. To contend that the so-called "big interests" of the country have a vested interest in the maintenance of poverty is to argue an absurdity. Such crack-pot reasoning is more or less expected from the Social Credit group in Parliament, but it occasions something of a sensation in federal circles when it comes from a former foreign minister.

MR. HERRIDGE'S argument is generally regarded, however, as more a matter of political technique than of logic. Like all demagogues his object is to capitalize unrest. And the motive is not far to seek. For the plan which he proposes would require for its operation an economic dictator in the Dominion.

In his Halifax speech the former Minister to Washington commences already to mouth the jargon of the dictators. He talks, for example, of "liquidating" exotic industries now surviving in the Dominion by virtue of the tariff.

What has come to be regarded on Parliament Hill as the most amazing feature of the standard Herridge speech of the past several months is the patronizing tone in which it is certain to be cloaked. The scorn which the former Minister has for all people save himself is looked upon generally as a little too audacious to be even refreshing, especially when it is considered in the light of his own exhibition of superficial and floundering economics.

THE TRUTH is that Mr. Herridge thinks that his scheme for a closed economy is something new and revolutionary, when actually it is simply the old pork-barrel glorified into the function of becoming the mainspring of democracy. In Mr. Herridge's planned state there would be no railway amalgamation, no cutting of government or civil service costs, no deflation to check prices as they headed dizzily for the stratosphere. Instead there would be as many railway and civil service jobs as a bureaucratic state bent upon strengthening its own bureaucracy could devise, and there would be high prices for all producers. In other words, in some form or other, there would be "pork" for everyone.

Even if the vision were practical—which it is not—it is the reverse of being lofty. Parliament Hill would not quarrel with this feature of the Herridge program, however, if it were frankly presented. If, instead of donning wings and a halo every time he mounts a public platform, the former Minister to Washington would stick a fat politician's cigar into the side of his mouth and announce to the boys that he stands for the greatest pork-barrel crusade ever proposed in would regard him with considerably less boredom and might even take him seriously.

In Praise of Famous Names

The manufacturer of any good product, who advertises it consistently in the daily newspapers can, in the course of time, make his product famous.

Everybody knows and uses products whose names are famous because of the vision, faith, courage and enterprise of the owners of them.

They were not famous in the beginning, but the owners proceeded to make them "household words" by means of persistent advertising in daily newspapers. The goodwill value of these names is fabulous; so much so, indeed, that one or more of the plants in which these products are manufactured could be destroyed with less loss to the owner than the loss of the trade name.

You, too, can build sales and goodwill for your products and services by advertising in the Canadian daily newspapers.

This advertisement was prepared for the Canadian Daily Newspapers Association by Thornton Purkis.

Kay Francis To Be Starred Here

A new co-starring team will make its screen debut at the Dominion Theatre tomorrow, with the initial performance of a new Warner Bros.' comedy called "Women Are Like That."

Curiously, although they have been at the same studio for several years, the lovely, dark Kay Francis and the genial, rapid-talking Irishman, Pat O'Brien, have never before worked in a picture together. Years ago on the stage they were teamed up in "Nigger Rich."

Diluted hydrochloric acid is being used to treat oil wells to increase their production. One Kansas well increased its daily output from 25 barrels to 1,440 barrels by this treatment.

Plaza Records World History

"World in Revolt" Tells True Story of Conditions in Many Countries

"The World in Revolt," now at the Plaza Theatre, is an account, composed of fragments of news reels, of revolution or discontent in many countries since the war, in Russia, Germany, Italy, Austria, France, America, China, Cuba, and England. It contains many scenes, photographed in circumstances of difficulty or danger, which show the progress of street fighting or civil war from close at hand, painful and horrifying illustrations of history, which in another medium only the most imaginatively observant writer could as effectively record.

The Russian scenes are particularly good, with many shots of Kerensky, Lenin, Trotsky, and other figures of the early days of the revolution. The Fascist movement in Italy and the Nazi movement in Germany.

BING CROSBY AT THE ATLAS

Famous Crooner Appears With Beatrice Lillie in "Doctor Rhythm"

An ace singer who can clown and an ace clown who can sing, pool their talents in Paramount's new musical comedy, "Doctor Rhythm," which is at the Atlas Theatre today. They are Bing Crosby, fresh from his triumph in "Double or Nothing," and the inimitable Beatrice Lillie, who has panicked audiences all over the world and now appears in her first important screen venture.

It is a modern version, set to music, of the great O. Henry's immortal story, "The Badge of Policeman O'Roon," which relates the rollicking experiences encountered by a fashionable New York physician who masquerades as a policeman for a day to help a friend out of trouble.

"Tropic Holiday" Is Colorful Story of Life in Mexico

While such important stars as Dorothy Lamour, Ray Milland, Bob Burns and Martha Raye go through their paces in a light-hearted story, the Mexican touch is supplied by an unbeatable collection of native entertainers and a series of sparkling songs from the pen of Augustin Lara, the "Irving Berlin of Latin America."

Bob Burns, as the would-be senator from Oklahoma and tireless suitor of Miss Raye, has one of the comic-philosophical roles he likes best of any he plays.

"EBB TIDE" AT THE COLUMBIA

Stars of stage and screen fame have the important character roles in the Robert Louis Stevenson and Lloyd Osbourne sea adventure of the South Seas, "Ebb Tide," coming today to the Columbia Theatre.

Made in Technicolor, this Paramount sea saga introduces the famed Viennese actor, Oscar Homolka, who has the role of Captain Thorbecke of the Golden State. Barry Fitzgerald, noted star of the Abbey Players of Dublin, is also featured, together with Ray Milland, Frances Farmer and Lloyd Nolan.

Brian Donlevy and Francis Drake also appear in "Midnight Taxi."

Because of his Christian faith, Costentenus, the Greek prince, was tattooed over every square inch of his body by his presecutors.

AWARDS FOR REPORTERS

Headliners' Club Gives Honors For Many Branches of Newspaper Work

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP)—For his exemplary work in covering the Spanish Civil War, the late Edward J. Neil, for many years one of the best-known staff men on the Associated Press, was honored by the National Headliners' Club today with a posthumous award.

A gold medal commemorating his outstanding and daring work, which finally led to his death in Spain last January 2, will be struck and presented to his widow.

The headliner awards are made by a committee of 15 newspaper, newsreel and radio men headed by Jack Price of the magazine Editor and Publisher. Medals will be presented to other award winners at the National Headliners' frolic here next Saturday.

This year's award for the best and most colorful feature story went to W. B. Ragsdale of the Washington Bureau of the Associated Press. The committee singled out a story he wrote on Al Capone and the Detroit Purple Gang.

SINO-JAPANESE WAR

Coverage of the Sino-Japanese War won three awards. Norman Alles' shots of the Panay bombing for Universal Newsreel won the award for the best foreign newsreel. The story of the bombing of Shanghai by John R. Morros of the United Press was given the award for the best foreign news reporting, and the picture by G. H. Wong, of a Chinese baby sitting in the middle of a bombed railroad station and crying won the "best news photo" award for International News Photos.

Three Chicago Times reporters won the award for the best United States news reporting. They turned in a series on the German American bund. John Metcalfe and William Mueller went to Bronxville, N.Y., and gained membership, while Metcalfe's brother, James, jointed the bund in Chicago.

Albert Mingalone, Paramount Newsreel photographer, who was "captured" by a cluster of ballons and carried 13 miles away from Old Orchard, Me., kept grinding away and got a "shot" that won him the award for the best United States newsreel scene.

Th Kansas City Journal-Post won the award for "outstanding service to the public" with its campaign to rid that city of vandalism and racketering.

The cartoon award went to C. D. Batchelor of the New York Daily News for his safety campaign series entitled "inviting the undertaker."

Britain Not To Build Destroyers

LONDON (CP-Havas) — The decision of the government not to start building any destroyers this year was reiterated and explained in the House of Commons today by Geoffrey Shakespeare, parliamentary secretary of the Admiralty.

Answering a question by Charles Emmott, Conservative, Mr. Shakespeare said that "in this year's program were concentrating on the construction of battleships, aircraft carriers and cruisers, which incidentally take longer to build."

STRICTER RULES FOR SWIMMERS

VATICAN CITY (CP)—L'Osservatore Romano, Vatican newspaper, appealed to authorities today for a more rigid enforcement of public decency laws in bathing beaches near Rome.

The Vatican organ, publishing a letter from three readers complaining about widespread wearing of the abbreviateed bathing suits, expressed the hope the authorities would act firmly.

Britain Orders Bombing Fleet

LONDON (CP-Havas) — The Royal Air Force has placed orders for a fleet of high speed "flying fortresses" of wide cruising range, the Daily Express reported today.

They will have a cruising range of 3,500 miles, will make 225 miles an hour and sustain a load of five tons, the Daily Express said.

AGRICULTURAL CONFERENCE

MONTREAL (CP)—Fifth meeting of the International Conference of Agricultural Economists will be held August 21 to 28 at Macdonald College, Ste. Anne de Bellevue, Que., it was announced today. The conference, first to be held in Canada, will be attended by agricultural economists from more than 25 countries.

Four Injured In Crash of Cars

VANCOUVER (CP) — Earl Gardner, 22, was in a hospital here today with severe throat injuries suffered yesterday when his automobile collided with another machine at an intersection. Hospital attendants report his condition serious.

Three other men were injured in the collision but were released from the hospital after treatment.

CARDOZO DIES; NOTED JURIST

WASHINGTON—Arrangements were being made today for the funeral of the late Benjamin N. Cardozo. The 68-year-old associate justice of the United States Supreme Court, died of a heart attack Saturday night at Port Chester, N.Y.

President Roosevelt stated at Oklahoma City that the death "came to me as a great personal shock." Justice Cardozo was one of the best friends in court of the Roosevelt administration.

He died at the estate of Judge Irvine Lehman of the New York Court of Appeals. Since June 25 he had been kept alive artificially in an oxygen tent and with intravenous injections of glucose.

BACKED NEW DEAL

Appointed to the high tribunal by President Hoover, Justice Cardozo voted 22 times to support New Deal sponsored laws. In only five cases did he turn against Roosevelt-favored enactments, and in those instances the court's decisions were unanimous.

The frail scholar was appointed to the court February 15, 1932 to succeed the late Oliver Wendell Holmes, another famous "liberal." Mr. Cardozo went to the Supreme Bench from the chief judgeship of the New York Court of Appeals.

He was the second member of the Jewish race to sit in the Supreme Court. The first was Justice Louis D. Brandeis, appointed in 1916 by President Wilson.

Cardozo's written opinions were noted for their crystalline clarity and beauty of expression. He was regarded generally as the literary stylist of the tribunal.

BENNETT IS NOT QUITTING COMMONS

SAINT JOHN, N.B. (CP)—"For the first time in my mature life I am free," Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett, who retired last week from the leadership of the National Conservative Party, said in an interview here.

"At the present time it is not my intention to resign my seat in the House of Commons, but one's present intentions in this regard may be modified by changing conditions and circumstances.

"I have no plans except that after remaining in Ottawa for a short time I expect to go to western Canada. How long I shall stay or where I shall go from there has not been settled."

Mr. Bennett left here yesterday for Ottawa.

PLAN BIG U.S. WAR GAMES

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States army, navy and marine corps will join next winter in the most extensive joint war games ever conducted in the Atlantic ocean.

Military officials said today that only the combined land and sea manoeuvres of the last several years in Hawaii would rival the forthcoming simulated warfare at Culebra Island, in the Caribbean.

The entire fleet of more than 150 ships will take part for a time as a phase of its "problem No. 20" involving defence of the Panama Canal.

privilege, which found that calling Mr. Sandys before the military court was a breach of Parliamentary immunity, Mr. Churchill declared military courts are convoked at the demand of higher authorities, "at the head of whom there ranks a politician to whom, I understand, it is not in order to refer today."

Mr. Churchill was obviously alluding to the Secretary of War, Rt. Hon. Leslie Hore-Belisha, whose responsibility in the case had previously been ruled out by the Speaker as a topic for discussion during today's debate.

The veteran Conservative expressed astonishment Mr. Hore-Belisha had not admitted "this subordinate court had no resopnsibility for asking Mr. Sandys, an officer in the Territorial army, to appear before it. The real responsibility, he charged, lay with the War Secretary.

JULY WHEAT IS UP TWO CENTS

WINNIPEG (CP)—A two-cent boost in July wheat featured today's session on Winnipeg Grain Exchange. Good buying lifted the price over the dollar mark for the first time in more than a week and it closed at $1.01⅛.

Other futures received little support but generally remained firm. Closing prices were 2⅞ to 1¼ cents higher with October at 79⅜ to 79½, November 78⅞ and December 77¼.

Concern over rust developments in North American spring wheat belts together with firmness in outside markets accounted chiefly for relative firmness here. No export business was reported during the week-end.

Cash wheat trade was flat with spreads generally unchanged and sales negligible. Pit trade in coarse grains was also dull.

Liverpool was firm, closing ⅞d higher to unchanged. Buenos Aires was ½ to ⅞ lower at noon and United States prices held near the previous close.

World wheat shipmets were placed at 12,178,000 bushels against 10,367,000 a week ago and 6,864,000 last year. Of this total North America contributed 3,809,000 this week, 2,670,000 last week and 1,259,000 a year ago.

BONDS

NEW YORK — Bonds drifted into an irregular course today with most corporate loans holding tightly to the big gains recorded in the last three weeks.

In a few active rails there was backsliding of a point or so. U.S. Governments edged up a little in early dealings. Foreign loans were inactive and narrow.

Foreign Exchange

NEW YORK—Led by the pound sterling, European currencies slumped into further low ground today.

Sterling moved off ⅜ of a cent in dollar terms to the lowest rate for more than a year.

London Market

LONDON (AP)—Stocks tended downward in a quiet market today. The industrial group generally was heavy and Trans-Atlantics closed lower after early unevenness. Gilt-edged issues and mines steadied. Mixed sentiment resulted from last week's mild reaction in Wall Street.

Prices Off 2 cents In Profit-selling

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market's "baby boom," three weeks old Monday, stubbed its toes on profit-selling and, in the resultant fall, suffered losses running to two or more points.

Aircrafts were an exception to the general list of casualties, but even the majority of these was unable to remain far out in front.

As in past sessions, the letdown was accompanied by a substantial dwindling of volume. Transfers were around 1,000,000 shares, the smallest for a full session since the sharp upturn got underway on June 20.

Principal share losers included U.S. Steel, Bethlehem, Youngstown, National Steel, Sears Roebuck, Montgomery Ward, J. I. Case, Caterpillar Tractor, American Telephone, Anaconda, American Smelting, Standard Oil of N.J., Westinghouse, Greyhound Corp., Union Carbide and N.Y. Central.

The bonds market generally drifted along quietly, although renewed weakness in railroad issues carried the more active liens in this group down around a point or more.

Buying interest in the carriers lagged noticeably after the sharp rise of the past week, and profit-taking was in evidence.

Cheaper Golds Gain Narrowly

TORONTO (CP)—After irregular and narrow price movements, the Toronto market was inclined to firm up near the close Monday. Action continued good in cheaper golds and their index registered a narrow net advance. Industrials also firmed slightly, but base metals finished with a net loss. Volume crowded the 800,000 share mark.

The cheaper gold group supplied the main field of action, with most issues a little higher at the finish.

Waite-Amulet held main interest in the base metal group. It opened down and close about 35 cents off for the day at 5.15, while trading in substantial volume. Nickel and Smelters declined ¾ to a point or more. Silvers were dull and a bit heavy.

Steels were inclined to ease off, but the utilities, foods and beverages held the balance of price adjustments on the up side. Papers moved irregularly, the Great Lakes issues advanced 1 to 2 points and the Abitibi issues finished fractions to a point down.

Girl Killed In Motorcycle Crash

WENATCHEE, Wash. (AP)—Margie Recknell, 23, of Vancouver, B.C., was fatally injured yesterday when the motorcycle she was riding with Charles Rust, 23, of Vancouver, skidded in loose gravel in Blewett Pass and plunged down the embankment.

Sheriff's deputies said Miss Ricknell, was hurled 30 feet. Rushed to the hospital at Leavenworth, she died 15 minutes later. Rust, who suffered cuts and bruises, was expected to be released from the hospital tomorrow.

CALGARY (CP) — A schoolteacher, Miss Margie Recknell, killed in a motorcycle accident near Wenatchee, Wash., yesterday, left Calgary last Thursday to reside with her widowed mother, who had moved to Vancouver two months ago.

Only child of Mrs. Annie T. Recknell, she was born and educated in Calgary and had lived here until her graduation from normal school two years ago. Since 1936 she had been on the teaching staff in the public school at Alsask, Alta., on the Alberta-Saskatchewan boundary 200 miles northeast of here.

Miss Recknell, whose father was killed in France during the Great War, attended the Crescent Heights High School here when Premier William Aberhart was principal and was well known to the Social Credit leader.

I—BURNS AND SCALDS

A few weeks ago, a railway train was wrecked in Montana while running over a bridge which was weakened by rushing waters. As a result, more than two scores persons were killed.

Front page headlines and long articles described that event, and made us feel sorry for those who met their doom in that unusual way.

Some little tots are scalded in this way

There is another kind of accident which we do not hear so much about—the home accident. Here and there, in the country and in the city, a burn, a fall or some other unhappy event brings death. Usually it happens to only one person at a time. There may be an item in the local paper, but that is all—unless the accident has happened to some famous man, woman or child.

If newspapers gathered facts about all home accidents on our continent, and added them together, we might have headlines like this, "77 Persons Die in Home Accidents" or "144 Persons Die in Home Accidents."

Judging by records of past years, about 2,100 men, women and children have died in home accidents in the United States and Canada since that railway accident in Montana. The number runs to an average of just about 100 per day!

Last year, burns and scalds took the lives of about 6,000 persons in the United States and Canada. Many thousands more were burned or scalded, but did not die.

Close to one-third of those injured were children four years of age or less. They upset (or fell into) buckets of hot water. They pulled pans or kettles of boiling water on themselves from a stove. They tugged at a coffee pot. They played with matches, or did something else to cause a fire.

Little ones suffer most often, but boys and girls of all ages, also men and women, die from burns and scalds. Here are a few safety rules I hope you will remember:

All boiling of food or water should be done on the back of the stove.

Never place a bucket or tub of hot water on the floor where anyone would be likely to stumble against it.

Never leave a pot of hot coffee, tea or cocoa where a tot might pull it down upon himself.

The safest home matches are safety matches in small oblong boxes, with no easy way of lighting them except on a side of the box. Gnawing mice or rats cannot ignite such matches.

Never use kerosene or gasoline to start a fire.

Never keep oily rags around the house. Destroy them.

Tomorrow: Poison in the Medicine Chest.

HOROSCOPE

"The stars incline, but do not compel"

TUESDAY, JULY 12, 1938

Adverse planetary aspects dominate today, according to astrology. The stars are believed to disturb the mind, causing selfishness and intolerance.

The morning hours may be extremely threatening to the plans of women, who will gain most by doing least under this rule of the stars.

It is a favorable configuration for travel and encourages escape from everyday affairs. Airplane journeys should be lucky.

Men who have profited through public positions now may be bitterly criticized as misuse of relief funds causes widespread anxiety.

Waste is prophesied as one of the issues in coming campaigns for political offices. As needs increase instead of diminishing, there will be apprehension concerning future appropriations.

Both men and women may be irritable under this configuration. Girls should study self-control and unselfishness.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of a year of unrest. Some may suffer from domestic strife in coming months, when in-laws may be troublesome. There should be prosperity for many.

Children born on this day probably will be fond of varied interests and inclined toward adventure. Subjects of this sign are generally lucky, although they may experience setbacks.

Dorothy Dix's Letter Box

DEAR MISS DIX—I have been in love with a girl for seven years, ever since we were in college together. She wants to marry me, but gives as her excuse for not doing so now that she must support her mother and father because her brother and sister refuse to contribute to the maintenance of a home for their parents. They insist that they need the money they make for themselves and that it is her job to take care of the old people. Now I am able to support her, but unable to support her family. Shall I continue to wait for her? She can give no hope of being relieved of the burden as long as the parents live.

STEVE.

Answer: You must find the answer to this problem in your own heart. It is not one that you can solve with your head. It all depends upon how much you love the girl and how much she is a part of your life. Maybe the girl is worth waiting for. Maybe you will get some break that will enable you to make enough money to support her parents.

Maybe your girl will develop enough backbone to force by law her selfish brother and sister to contribute to their father's and mother's maintenance, since they will not do it by principle. Maybe you will just go on waiting until love and desire perish of sheer boredom. You never can tell.

How often do we see parents quit work as soon as the eldest daughter is old enough to get a job, and thereafter sit down on the do-nothing stool and let her support them. How often do we see mothers and fathers take the money that such a girl earns to spend on their younger children and give them the good times and advantages she never had.

Of all the mean and dastardly acts in the world, none equals the selfishness with which families pass the buck to one member and wish on him or her all of the responsibilities and duties that belong to them all, and that, shared among them, would be light and hurt none, instead of crushing the one who is forced to bear them alone. No doubt the family martyr is an angel, but the man or woman who marries him or her has to share in the martyrdom.

Many holiday tour parties sailed in tourist and third class aboard the liner. University Tours of Toronto, had a large group of young passengers and another sizeable party on board was organized by a Quebec city radio station.

The list also included Isobelle McEwan, radio artist from the Pacific coast, who has become known there as "Vancouver Rotary Sweeheart" following many appearances at Rotary concerts. Miss McEwan is going to sing on the English networks.

Notables aboard the liner also included George D. Lorgan, newspaper publisher of Kansas City, Mo., and Dr. Joelecar, surgeon of a prominent Bombay hospital who has been visiting the United States.

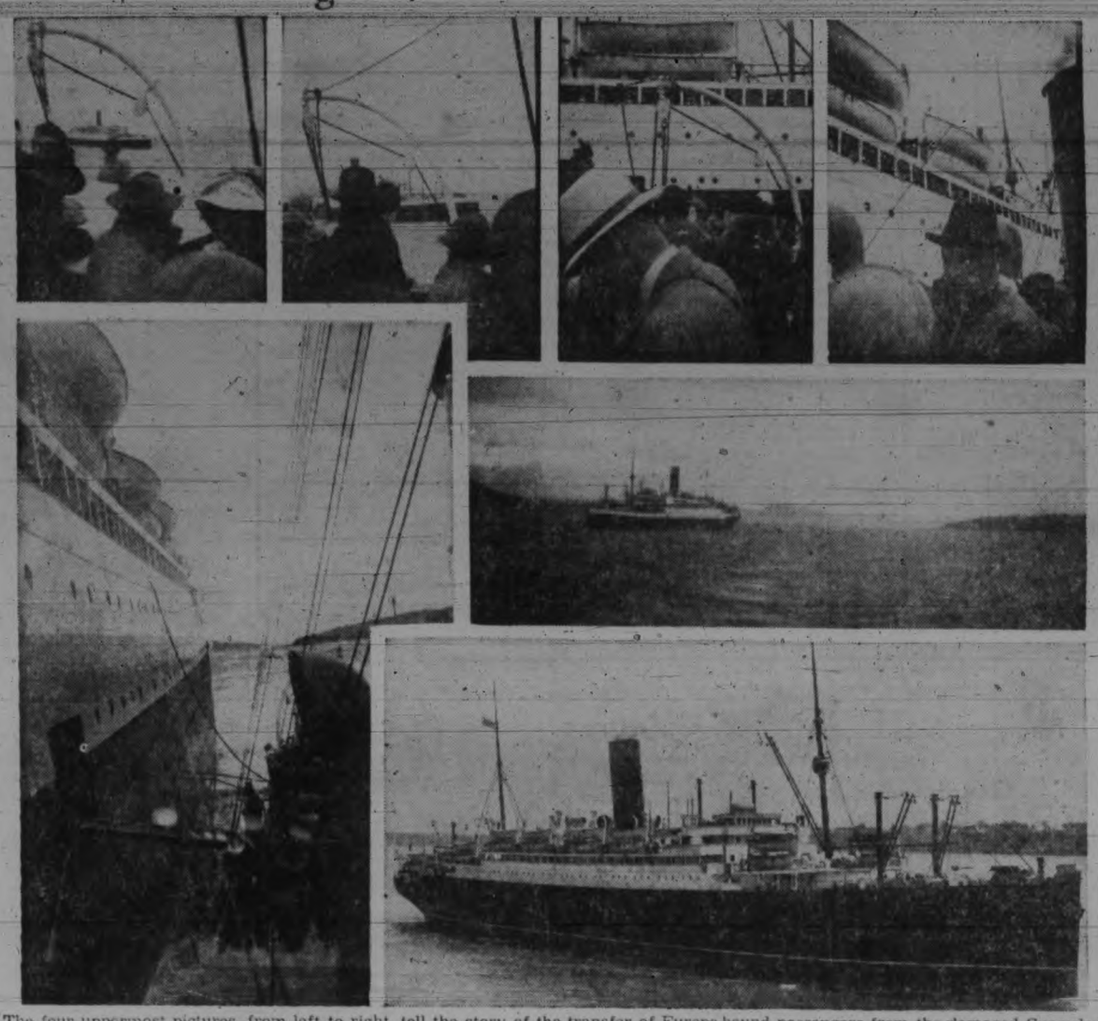
Exciting Scenes When Liner Ran Ashore



The four uppermost pictures, from left to right, tell the story of the transfer of Europe-bound passengers from the damaged Cunarder Ascania to her sister-ship, the Ausonia. The first shows the almost-deserted Ascania over the rail of the pilot-tender Citadelle which went out from Father Point. The ship has already settled considerably at the bow. The second picture shows the Citadelle approaching the Ausonia, the third and fourth, close-range views of passengers transferring from the tender to the bigger ship. The lower left picture is another view of passengers being put aboard the Ausonia. Middle right, the Ascania is shown fast on big Rock, from the deck of the receding tender. Lower right is a view of the Ascania on a recent more fortunate voyage down the river.

To Compete With Canadian Liners

Seattle Looking For Ships As Fast As Ones From B.C.

SEATTLE—The newly-created Pacific Northwest Oriental Line will insist on speedy, luxurious and well-equipped passenger ships comparable in every way to vessels in Orient service from Canadian and California ports, W. Walter Williams, president of the Seattle Chamber of Commerce, said today.

The committee in charge of the new service has been unable to find speedy enough ships and has asked the Maritime Commission to find "suitable ships" for the route across the north Pacific.

The line has been incorporated in Delaware with an initial capital of $250,000 to replace the American Mail Line.

"Although no minimum speed has been set I think we should insist on ships of from 14 to 16 knots," Mr. Williams said. "If we are to compete with Victoria, B.C., and San Francisco, the vessels must be every bit as comfortable, as well equipped and as fast as the ships they have.

"The Maritime Commission has information about all ships throughout the country and should be able to find suitable ones for us."

Interest Is Shown In Bluenose Race

Postponement of Schooner Event to October Wins Approval in New England

By JOHN PILLSBURY
Canadian Press Correspondent

BOSTON (CP)—Now that the international schooner race between Nova Scotia's Bluenose and the Gloucester, Mass., schooner Gertrude L. Thebaud has been postponed until October, the Boston organization raising funds for the event saw easier sailing ahead, according to Treasurer George D. Hall.

Originally Capt. Angus Walters of the Bluenose and Capt. Ben Pine of the Thebaud were scheduled to bring their vessels up to the line for the first race August 21. By common consent, however, October 9 was named the date of the series opener. Most Nova Scotians believed the races should be held in the fall because of stronger winds and Massachusetts' salts agreed with them.

The Bluenose, queen of the North Atlantic fishing fleets, has yet to be defeated in international trophy competition although Capt. Pine points to a victory for his beloved Thebaud in exhibition racing—and there will be plenty of interest in New England when the race finally begins.

Capt. Ben Pine is just out of hospital after an operation for sinus trouble. Few persons know he won a brush with death after he developed ether pneumonia following the operation. For about three days his condition was extremely critical. When he left the hospital he went to a retreat in New Hampshire, where he will remain probably for another two weeks.

Before he went to the hospital, Capt. Pine told Prof. Zenas R. Bliss, navigator on the successful America's Cup defender Ranger, he was having difficulty in getting a crew experienced in working a sailing vessel. Men are being lined up from Portland, Me., to Cape Cod, including Gloucester, of course, and New Bedford. Even with that wide range there is a scarcity of available men.

The starting point of the race will be just northwest of Boston Lightship, and will follow a northeastern or southwestern course, depending on the wind direction. It is planned now to race two laps over a triangular course, five miles to each leg, with a maximum distance allowed of 40 miles for each race.

The series will be a best-of-five affair, starting Sunday, October 9, and continuing every other day. The sailing committee, however, may change the schedule and may also alter the layout of the course.

The fund that the local committee is seeking to raise is set at $50,000. The organization to raise that money is called the International Fishermen's Race Inc. The personnel of the corporation is Frank S. Davis, manager of the Maritime Association of the Boston Chamber of Commerce, president; Roscoe H. Prior, head of the American Stevedoring Corporation, vice-president; George D. Hall, Boston publisher, treasurer; Gardiner Poole of the Frosted Foods Corporation, and Capt. Ben Pine, directors.

BLUENOSE TO SHARE IN FUND

The organization was incorporated as a non-profit corporation. Mr. Hall estimated that the cost of raising the fund would be about 12 to 15 per cent.

He explained that of the proposed $50,000, $10,000 would be granted to help put the Bluenose into condition. He said the Canadian government had offered to donate $5,000 to the race, but not enough money would be raised in Canada to refit the Canadian cup-holder.

Prize money of $5,000 will be offered.

CAPT. DEMERS PASSES AWAY

Former Dominion Wreck Commissioner Was Chief Officer on Thermopylae

OTTAWA — Capt. L. A. Demers, former Dominion Government wreck commissioner and well-known figure in Admiralty circles in every port in Canada died here Saturday. He was 75 and a native of Quebec.

Experience in the handling of sailing ships in the early '80s, and a ripe knowledge of steamers from tugs to liners enabled Capt. Demers to bring to his duties of Dominion wreck commissioner an unsurpassed familiarity with water transportation. Capt. Demers, who was born in Quebec, in 1863, made the sea his special vocation in 1878, when he was apprenticed to a shipping firm and indentured to the brigantine Beaver. Before he was 16 years old he had made many trips in this ship to different parts of the world.

He became chief officer on board the famous clipper Thermopylae in 1886. Many rapid voyages were made by Capt. Demers in this famous ship. The record of 68 days from London to Sydney, Australia, being set when she was in the wool trade, and the record of 58 days from London to Melbourne, Australia while she was carrying tea. Thermopylae also made the shortest time for a sailing vessel from Foo-Chow to London while Capt. Demers was her chief officer.

After leaving the Thermopylae, Capt. Demers joined the Canadian lighthouse service as second mate of the first fisheries protective cruiser, Angus MacDonald. In 1904 he transferred to Ss. Restigouche, which plied in the passenger trade between Dalhousie and Gaspe on the Bay of Chaleur. In the next year he returned to the Canadian Marine Department as assistant chief examiner of masters and mates and assistant wreck commissioner to Capt. Salmon. He founded the Marine School in Montreal, which was the first in Canada, and four more when appointed chief examiner, later to be followed by an additional eight throughout the country. He was appointed wreck commisioner in 1908.

Capt. Demers served as Dominion wreck commissioner continuously, with the exception of two years from 1912 to 1914, when he was harbor master at Montreal. From 1908 to 1910 he also occupied three official positions: Chief examiner of masters and mates, superintendent of pilots, and superintendent of marine schools, the functions of which are now performed by three separate persons.

He also made many noteworthy recommendations for the improvement of the piloting service and changes in navigational aids on the River St. Lawrence.

Dawn Will Take Part in Classic

The International Power Boat Race will take place this year, July 15 and 16, and is being run from Bremerton to Nanaimo, a distance of approximately 150 miles, finishing at 4 p.m. at Nanaimo on Saturday.

H. W. Miller, with the cruiser Dawn, will leave here tomorrow for Seattle to represent the Royal Victoria Yacht Club in this race and expects to make a good showing. The requirements are very exacting, each skipper having to predict his log over the whole course before starting. A qualified observer is placed aboard each boat, all time pieces are surrendered and no changes made with any controls after 10 minutes from the start to the finish of the race.

This is a long grind, being approximately 150 miles, and will take the average power cruiser from 16 to 20 hours. No professional help is allowed, and each boat must be manned by a crew of three.

Mr. Miller, owner of the Dawn, will be skipper and will be accompanied by Rowland Halls and Wally Mosedale as first and second mates. There will also be aboard Mrs. Miller and daughters Ethel and Irene as Setter-uppers.
